Quebec Planning Massive Borrowing

YOUNG, OLD SWIM FREE AT CRYSTAL

Free swimming for preschool children (aged six and under) and senior citizens will be offered at Victoria's Crystal Pool this fall.

And the water temperature will be warmer, promises recreation committee chairman Ald. Ron McKenzie.

The new policy approved by city council in caucus on Tuesday, is an attempt to boost slumping attendance at the pool.

Recreation manager Jack Morgan said today there has been about a 20 per cent drop in attendance at most municipal swimming pools in the Greater Victoria area, but at the Crystal the figure is approaching 40 per cent.

In an earlier council discussion, favorable admission rates at other centres — particularly Oak Bay's recreation

QUEBEC — The Quebec government Tuesday announced massive borrowing plans for the next decade including $51 billion for hydro development and $700 million to pay the bulk of the deficit from last month's Olympic Games.

A provincial finance department spokesman said increases in the provincial tobacco tax will pay for the Olympic loans. The province has to pay $795 million of the $95 million deficit and the City of Montreal is responsible for the other $200 million.

The largest loans, totalling $450 million, will come from U.S. banks from Morgan Guaranty Co., which will provide two loans.

Eight Canadian banks will provide loans totalling $250 million with the largest portions coming from the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Interest rates charged by the banks will be less than one per cent above the prime lending rate, now 10 1/4 per cent.

With $700 million in loans, the provincial government intends to raise the remaining $95 million of the deficit through short term loans and resources.

The finance department spokesman said the government is also studying the possibility of applying increased taxes from hotel and restaurant revenue to the Olympic deficit. Olympic crowds substantially increased the revenue volume.

The tax increases on cigarettes and tobacco will be paid directly to the Olympic Installations Board, the body in charge of games construction.

The taxes are expected to bring in $75 million by the end of the 1976-77 fiscal year and $88 million during the 1977-78 fiscal year.

Concerning Hydro-Quebec, Natural Resources Minister Jean Cournoyer said the utility's plans, covering development of the province's remaining water power potential and eventual construction of nuclear reaction stations, would call for investment of $2 billion annually between 1978 and 1985 and $5 billion annually for the following five years.

Cournoyer spoke Tuesday during a study of Hydro-Quebec's plans by the national assembly's natural resources committee.

Cournoyer said the utility agency's plans would call for annual borrowing of $2.5 billion to $3 billion annually until 1990.

Hydro-Quebec's plans, the minister said, are based on the agency's own forecasts of electricity demand increasing 7.5 per cent annually which would call for a doubling of power every 10 years.

LOCKOUT NOTICE AT SAFEWAY

Canada Safeway Ltd. has served lockout notice on its 75 Victoria warehouse employees effective 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Last-ditch contract negotiations collapsed Tuesday.

A strike is also expected at Safeway's Burnaby warehouse Thursday and the combined lockout-strike actions will cut off supplies to the chain's 93 stores in B.C., involving 10 in the Victoria area.

Retail outlets are not expected to operate longer than two weeks with supplies on hand, and a company spokesman said today 4,400 employees across the province could be out of work by that time.

Union officials remained unavailable for comment, but the company spokesman said negotiations went on for three months without any headway.

Issues in the dispute, according to the company, include a contract clause that would "give management the freedom to institute efficiencies" while the union wants pay increases.

Management in addition says the union wants jurisdiction over maintenance work, trucking in northern B.C. and meat transportation from Calgary.

Saanich Plans Bylaw to Protect Trees

A report by Gerry Chaster, assistant parks administrator, on a meeting with representatives of B.C. Hydro, B.C. Telephone and Saanich's engineering department, said the utility companies had balked at assuming responsibility for "balanced pruning and shaping of the entire trees," saying they were only responsible for line clearance.

Chaster said municipal engineering officials felt the parks' department requirements were "totally unworkable."

"There's a whole swath of the Cedar that could have been saved that are literally decimated. There was a magnificent old tree at Majestic Park that right now looks like a scarecrow," Andrews said.

He said the city of Victoria has requirements for the protection of trees and West Vancouver has a bylaw that not only sets stiff requirements for tree-pruning on municipal grounds but also covers private properties.

Municipal administrator Bill Tremayne told the committee, "There is some clout you can exert but you want their goodwill to get them to agree to this kind of thing."

Chaster said both utility companies and the Saanich engineering department had alleged working 10 feet from trees was too limiting and that no cutting of roots two inches or larger was impossible.

Chaster pointed out requirements would not completely ban working closer than 10 feet but said, if this was done, the parks administrator should be notified so that he could seek an alternative solution such as changing alignments or grades.

Bus Depot Blown Up

MacEachen to U.S.

OTTAWA — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen travels to Washington next week for talks with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army and its partisans blew up a bus depot, burned down a flour mill and a community centre, hijacked trucks and battled the British Army with shots and bombs in Belfast Tuesday night and early today.

It was the third night of widespread violence in Belfast. The upsurge was touched off by an IRA rally Sunday calling for resistance to new anti-IRA regulations.

FOOD PRICES LEAD WAY

Dramatic Decline In Inflation Rate

FLASH FLOOD took out a 300-foot section of highway where it crossed Moses Coulee near Coulee City in Washington. The washout may take months to repair, and area farmers are worried at the added expense of trucking grain along detours. Road is the main highway in the central Washington area.

Times News Services
OTTAWA — Canada's inflation rate declined dramatically in July, due mainly to lower food prices, Statistics Canada reported today.

The annual boost in the Consumer Price Index to a 6.8 increase was the lowest in three years, the data-gathering agency said.

The overall consumer price index in July advanced 0.4 per cent for the month, mainly due to increased costs of mortgages and rents as well as seasonally-higher prices for hotel and motel accommodation.

Last year at this time, Canada was in the grip of double-digit inflation with an annual increase of 11 per cent showing in last July's figures which were up 1.4 per cent over June of that year.

This July's increase brought the consumer price index to 14.3 compared to 100 in the base year of 1971.

Higher pork prices, as well as higher prices for vegetables, coffee and restaurant meals were mainly responsible for the 0.3 per cent increase in the food price index.

Lower prices for beef products and sugar offset those increases.

The price of food consumed at home during July was 0.6 per cent below the level of July, 1975. It was the first time in five years that food consumed at home had shown a decrease in any 12-month period.

Higer train fares also were factors in the CPI increase.

Household help charges also were up, but were partly offset by lower automobile and gasoline prices which edged downward.

GAMBLERS PAY NEVADA $1.18B

CARSON CITY (UPI) — Gamblers left a record $1.18 billion in the coffers of Nevada's gambling casinos during the fiscal year which ended June 30. The state gaming control board said Tuesday that the amount was $122 million more than the figure for the previous year.

B.C. Cancer Grant

Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy today approved a $50,000 grant to the B.C. division of the Canadian Cancer Society's 1976 fund-raising campaign. The provincial grant brings the total of this year's campaign to $1,037,000 and McCarthy said she expected the society would reach its objective of $1,050,000 in the next few weeks.

Rioters Stoning 'All in Sight'

SOWETO, the scene of the bloodiest clashes a week ago, remained quiet for the second day.

In the eastern Transvaal, at Lichtenberg, rioters Tuesday night burned down six buildings, including a block housing the post office. In Cape Province, demonstrators gutted a prefabricated building in a college complex. Black townships around Pretoria, police said.

Police said they "took action" to restore order but gave no further details.

So far 11 persons have been killed in the last outbreak of violence that began last week when youths demanded the release of student leaders who were rounded up in mid-June during racial fighting that left 176 persons dead.

Because of the unrest in black areas, South Africa has imposed a nationwide law calling for indefinite detention of suspects involved in the outbreaks of violence during the past two months.

MAKE JOBS: WALLACE

Tory leader Scott Wallace today urged the provincial government to borrow money to finance job creation programs in B.C.

Wallace said July unemployment figures for the province show the consequences of the government's "black ink approach" in financial policies.

The figures showed a 3 per cent jump in unemployment to 9.1 per cent.

Investors have lost confidence in B.C., said, damaging the economic base of the province.

Wallace said the unemployment figures confirm that the PARIS (UPI) — Twelve persons died today in a fire that raced through a six-storey lodging house that had no fire escape. Two of the victims jumped to their deaths.

Nine persons were injured, four critically.

Police said most of the victims were North African immigrant workers who lived in the Hotel d'Amérique, a small, shabby lodging house in north central Paris.

Hotel employees said a woman of British nationality was believed among the dead, but there was no immediate confirmation.

The hotel — like most buildings in Paris — had no fire escape.

As the flames spread through the building, the elevator caught fire, blocking any escape route for the approximately 40 persons inside.

Firemen using ladders rescued some of the screaming tenants, but others jumped into the street or onto the hotel's cobblestone courtyard.

Police quoted a witness as saying "people were jumping out the windows and screaming and one woman's nightgown was in flames."

"It was a nightmare," said the manager of an apartment house across the narrow, hilly street.

"I saw the flames on the ground floor and called the fire department," said one passerby. "Before they could get here the hotel burned upwards as if it were made of straw. It's very old."

Lost Child Spotted

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — A small girl missing in a remote area of eastern Snohomish County was found apparently unharmed Tuesday, the sheriff's office reported.

"She's cold and wet but otherwise seems to be okay," a sheriff's office reported.

The little girl, identified as King Logsdan, 2½, was reportedly missing Monday from a Sultan Basin area campsite at about the 3,600-foot level on Mt. Stickney. The sheriff's office said she was spotted from a helicopter which was not available for use Monday because of poor weather and darkness.

New Crunch on Camp

BEIRUT (AP) — Christian fighters launched a new attack today to try to finish off the siege of the Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp in Christian east Beirut.

Security sources said as many as 4,000 Christian fighters of the Phalange and National Liberal parties were pounding the devastated camp with artillery, rockets and heavy mortars.

The dwindling force of Palestinian defenders was reduced to small arms.

More Lebanese Moslems were reported escaping from the camp in small groups amid the bombardment. Some were brought to Moslem west Beirut in truck convoys organized by the Shiite Moslem

There they joined about 3,000 refugees from the Nabaa Moslem slum district, one mile from Tal Zaatar, which the Christians overran last week.

Some of the refugees reported they were fired on by the Christians when they emerged from Tal Zaatar and Nabaa.

They said a number of the fleeing Moslems were killed or wounded.

Fighting also continued in the mountains east of Beirut and across the no-man's land between the Christian and Moslem sectors of Beirut.

There were heavy exchanges of fire between Moslem Chiayah and Christian Ein Rummaneh, two neighboring southern suburbs.

Many persons were reported fleeing from Chiayah because they feared a Christian attempt to take the suburb.

Security sources and hospital officials estimated 140 persons killed and more than 200 wounded on all fronts during the 24 hours before 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Amin Offering Talks to Britain

NAIROBI (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda has offered to hold talks with Britain to restore recently severed diplomatic relations between the two countries, Uganda radio reported Tuesday.

During an interview with the British Broadcasting Corp., Amin described Britain's decision to sever relations with Uganda, a member of the British Commonwealth, as a "temporary misunderstanding."

In the interview, Amin also repeated that the only obstacle to restoring normal relations with the United States was U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger, and once Kissinger left office, "our relations with America will be excellent," the radio said.

Elderly Woman Victim

A 74-year-old Victoria woman received cuts to her hand in a purse snatching incident Monday.

Victoria police said Mrs. Hazel McDonald of 1025 Sutlej, was walking towards her home when two young men approached from behind, grabbed her purse and knocked her to the ground.

Police said the purse contained personal papers and about $4 cash.

ONE OF LIFE'S little mysteries for Snohomish County police in Washington state is how this car ended up in the river against a piling. The car, they say, was stolen in nearby Everett and they speculate that joyriders took it off a launching ramp. But, how it wound up in this position — that's anybody's guess.

Apple Growers Get Pip

PENTICTON (AP) — British Columbia apple growers, despite Ottawa's price stabilization announced earlier this week, will lose more than $6 million on the 1975 apple crop. Charles Bernhardi, president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association, said Tuesday.

He was commenting on the federal program under which growers will receive 2.1 cents a pound for 1975 apples. Sales will bring about 4.5 cents a pound.

The $6 million loss will result as growers, through a combination of fruit sales, federal stabilization and provincial income assurance, fail to equal their cost of production.

That cost for 1975 was set by growers and government officials at 11 cents a pound.

Total return from all sources, including the provincial government program, for the 1975 crop will likely be about nine cents a pound.

The federal program will return $11 million to apple growers across Canada and about $5 million to British Columbia.

Nigel Taylor of Kelowna, president of the Canadian Horticultural Council, said Tuesday he was bitterly disappointed with the Ottawa program.

Nationalists in Wales Setting Up Libya Tie

Manchester Guardian

ABERDOVEY, Wales — Trade and educational links between Wales and Libya are being set up by Plaid Cymru, the Welsh nationalist party.

A group of Libyans from Col. Muammar Gaddafi's Arab Socialist Union have been in South Wales and parts of West Wales during the past week as guests of Plaid Cymru.

Plaid Cymru and the Libyans are negotiating to form a meat company to export Welsh lamb to Libya.

At present Libya imports about one million head of sheep a year, much of it from Ireland, and Plaid Cymru obviously thinks Libya also might be a profitable market for Welsh farmers.

"We feel that Welsh lamb is not being marketed as it could be to get the best prices, and at the moment we are exploring with the Libyans the possibility of a joint company," said Dr. Phil Williams, chairman of Plaid Cymru.

As lamb is the main source of meat in Libya, it could fetch four times the British market value."

NO PENALTIES SET FOR U.S. SHOPPERS

VANCOUVER (AP) — Despite the growing numbers of Canadians who slip down to the United States to do their grocery shopping at cheaper prices, revenue Minister Bud Cullen says there won't be any crackdowns by customs inspectors.

Cullen said in an interview that the government is "sympathetic to Canadians faced with strikes, inflation and other modern-day frustrations."

Cullen warned, however, that customs duties would still be collected and "if what I'm saying appears we are going soft, we're not."

"Therefore I am satisfied that customs and excise people at the border are showing good horse sense in dealing with the growing number of Canadians returning from the United States," said Cullen.

"We don't want to hassle them any more than they now suffer in long weekend lineups."

Cullen said, however, that customs duties would still be collected and "if what I'm saying appears we are going soft, we're not."

29-Hour Ordeal Adrift on a Bed of Seaweed

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Two young men bunched seaweed together to stay afloat and kicked small sharks away in a 29-hour fight against hurricane-whipped seas and exposure.

The two Floridians, Wayne Contelmo of Bartow, and Dennis Pocaca of Delray Beach, dropped into the foaming sea when they lost their grip as they went hand over hand down a rope to a dinghy that was being pulled behind their 35-foot sailboat, the Nimbus.

They told their rescuer, Captain Gene Riggs of the 72-foot scallop trawler Teresa Ann, that the sailboat just kept heading away from them.

"They said they thought the others were just leaving them to stew but after about 45 minutes they didn't think the others were joking," Riggs said.

The men were sighted Monday evening by the crew of the Greek freighter Taeoano Livanos in the gulf stream off Melbourne Beach, more than 100 miles from the scene of the accident.

Seas in the wake of Hurricane Belle were too rough for the freighter to attempt a rescue, so the crew fired flares, alerting the crew of the Teresa Ann, which was nearby.

Riggs said the men poured out their story and consumed five gallons of water, two six-packs of soft drinks and "really packed away a lot of chicken and ham sandwiches and cake" during the six-hour return trip to land.

"We were kinda clumsy," Riggs said they told him in describing their fall into the sea. He asked if they had been drinking and they said no.

About 45 minutes after they were dumped into the ocean, the ship turned and headed their way. But while still about 30 minutes away, it turned from them again despite the yelling and whistles of the pair.

The two said they saw no other boats and planes but did see sharks. Riggs said they told him that sharks circled them for awhile, never getting close enough to bite. A school of small sharks, however, came right up to them to scare them away.

Clad only in swimming trunks, they took the string out of their suits and bound their wrists together at night so that they wouldn't drift away from each other.

Seaweed surrounded them during the night and they bunched it together to make a bed to help them float. "They said in the morning they saw a floating gallon jug and got that for floatation," Riggs said.

"They spotted a plank and one of them swam for it. Just then a huge brown fin ripped through the water close by. A very large shark swam by and eventually went away."

Contelmo and Pocaca had said the Nimbus ran aground Monday night in the Lake Worth inlet. It remained aground Tuesday and delayed attempts to question the others aboard.

Ease the Financial Pain

Despite the provincial government's lame excuses explaining Vancouver Island's drop in tourism — the U.S. bicentennial, dollar exchange rates and other intangibles that can't be quantified — increased ferry rates have had a profound effect on local tourist revenues. A 33 per cent drop in June traffic on the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run and a 20 per cent drop in July prove the point. Doubled ferry rates simply mean that many tourists are skipping Vancouver Island.

If new ferry rates are the most dramatic example of provincial financial measures which have affected the economy, a 40 per cent rise in sales tax coupled with high ICBC rates have also taken a deep gouge from disposable incomes. NDP leader David Barrett's characterization of the government fiscal policies as a tax-created depression may be premature, but undoubtedly many local entrepreneurs look forward to a lean winter because of government policies. In its zeal for a neat and tidy financial picture the Bennett administration has hurt the very people who worked so hard for its election. The ironies of politics.

With two or three years of its mandate ahead of it, the government can easily ride out current grumbling and sweeten the sting in succeeding legislative sessions. Politically the dangers are minimal. But many small businessmen throughout the province, and especially those on Vancouver Island, see the government measures as an extra burden in inflationary times. On the national scene wholesale price indexes are on the rise again, housing starts are declining, and chronic inflation of seven or eight per cent is forecast for the winter months. In a relatively more depressed province like B.C. these national trends can be more severe than in other jurisdictions. In a recent survey the Employers' Council of British Columbia says the provincial economic outlook is, at best, only fair for the remaining six months of 1976.

Given this uncertain harbinger, the provincial government should allow a little compassion to creep into its ledgers. Since the ferry system — an albatross of the last two provincial administrations — must be losing money on the reduced traffic flow, the government could at least reduce the rates by 15 or 20 per cent, to increase traffic. While this would not help the shank of a poor tourist season, it would reassure nervous electors that government has their interests at heart.

Conversely, if the Bennett administration continues its rigid pattern, reducing winter ferry service in reaction to revenue drops, as Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Alan Emery fears, Social Credit may find itself with fewer MLAs next time around. The ferry service is an extension of Islanders' minds and bodies. We have suffered enough unpleasant jolts — some of them albeit necessary — from this government in its first seven months in office. The business community and citizens alike are not asking for a pat on the head, but it would ease financial pains if the government would at least remove its full nelson from around our stretched necks.

Save the Marguerite — Yet Again

The saga of the Princess Marguerite in the recent past has had more cliffhanging junctures in the plot than the average episode of the Perils of Pauline. Just when you think she's been saved, presto, another villain emerges from the woodwork to tie her to the tracks, to mix metaphors.

Now, if Transport Minister Jack Davis has his way, she'll be replaced on the Victoria-Seattle run by the sleek, modern Queen of Surrey, which because of the higher fares on B.C. Ferries and resultant drop in business, lies idle at the ferry authority's Deas dock in the Fraser River.

Its operating costs are lower and it can carry 50 more cars than the Marguerite, but the 28-year-old former CPR vessel is not obsolete yet. The Marguerite has years of life left in her. The Queen of Surrey, of Swedish origin, may be more efficient but it's about as typically representative of Victoria as the flashy glass and cement highrises.

Half the reason the Marguerite's passengers travel aboard her is the journey itself. Even when the CPR ran it along the lines of a cattle boat, they flocked aboard. The attraction of the vessel itself for tourists — its brass and mahogany, narrow gangways, teak decks and old-fashioned charm — shouldn't be underestimated in any consideration of replacing her.

It's ironic that the suggestion to put the Queen of Surrey on the run in place of the Marguerite originated with Victoria MLA Sam Bawlf, who's spent much of his professional life working to preserve the old and charming, and shown that you can make money at it too.

How often do Victorians and Seattle residents have to reiterate that they like the Princess Marguerite the way she is? If they preferred the sterile, tourists would be swarming aboard the B.C. Ferries main vessels to ride back and forth, which demonstrably they aren't.

If it's a fait accompli — and Davis' statement that the decision has to go to cabinet and the board of B.C. Steamships Corp. first is, it seems, nothing more than formality — may we suggest at least a trial run to test the waters?

Just like the hydrofoil his department is going to test, why not put the Queen of Surrey on for a week or two by itself to judge the response? At the same time, the Marguerite could launch a downtown-to-downtown route between Victoria and Vancouver in another trial run of a service many have been asking for.

TOM WICKER

Arms to Iran: Vietnam Again

NEW YORK — The United States was not even out of Vietnam in May, 1972, when President Richard Nixon made an offhand, unpublicized and unbated decision that tied the U.S. almost as inextricably to Iran. Nixon ordered the defence and state departments to let Iran buy any American weapon it wanted short of nuclear warheads.

In the mysterious ways of bureaucracy, that apparently precluded even the most cursory review or analysis of the shah's military shopping list, with the result that, since 1972, American arms sales to Iran have totalled $10.4 billion. The weapons are so sophisticated that large numbers of Americans are needed to help service and operate them. And at the present rate of expansion of the Shah's armed forces, the 24,000 Americans now in Iran may be more than doubled by 1980.

Ludicrous Snarl

If the shah wanted to start a war, moreover, or if someone started one with him, Iranian forces would be as dependent on their American advisers (does that word remind anyone of Vietnam?) as on their American weapons. Or if, in the event of war, Washington pulled the Americans out, the shah's forces would be left all but helpless.

If it were not so dangerous, the Iranian snarl would be ludicrous. A study belatedly conducted by the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee not only details the shah's purchases — such as four Spruance class destroyers more sophisticated than those being built for American use, and 80

F-14 Grumman Tomcats, an aircraft so complex even the United States navy is having trouble with it — the study also points out the diplomatic and strategic implications of Nixon's decision.

Suppose, for only one plausible example, Iranian forces were to be ordered into action by the shah in some way dangerous to the survival of Israel, which is a major American commitment. Either his American weapons and his American technicians would have to be used despite that commitment and against Israel's interests, or the Americans would have to be withdrawn, crippling Iran's military capacity.

The latter course surely would not please the shah, who just happens to control a lot of oil.

Nor is there any quick way out of this box. Apparently if the U.S. stopped selling arms to Iran now — although the Shah is considering buying 250 to 300 more American fighter planes, plus much other equipment — it would be five years or more before Iran could have the necessary expertise to operate the weapons she already has. Like B'r'r Rabbit stuck to the tail baby, Washington is thus to some extent hostage to the shah for years to come, and no matter who is president.

Like B'r'r Rabbit stuck to the tail baby, Washington is thus to some extent hostage to the shah for years to come, and no matter who is president.

Is it really in the American interest for this nation to be the world's largest and most zealous arms merchant? Does either the domestic economy or an effective foreign policy require the sale of $8.3 billion in arms to the world, the American total in fiscal 1976? Are Americans themselves safer from war and destruction because of these sales?

Imperial as Shah

Perhaps the most important question is whether the president of the United States, no matter who he is, or of which party, should have the personal power to make far-reaching decisions as casually as Nixon appears to have done on arms sales to Iran.

The executive necessarily has great latitude in the conduct of foreign policy and security affairs, but that latitude is supposed to be exercised within a system of checks and balances, and — save in emergency — by orderly process open to question and review. The Iranian arms mess suggests once again that the powers of the presidency can be as imperial as those of a shah.

Good Batch

No doubt it was a very good batch of mind-stirring pieces all published in one issue. Hailing Aug. 7 Times with jubilant scrutiny the factual and reportorial examinations of worldly shenanigans written by the very cream of writers and journalists from such varied fields, to be sure!

First the aperitif, the editorial page: High Altitude Politics, Colwood Crawl, String Quartets And Stringent Measures (Editor's Notebook). All a delightful topping for James Gray's A Slam at the Sacred CPI.

Hardly believing one's good fortune of newsy revelations, but go anyway on. Hitched the excited irises to page five and lo and behold, Nests Feathered at Top of U.K. Social Roost, by Bernard Nossiter. He uses such boldness debunking some special blood types coursing through the gold-lined veins!

Then lowering my gaze into pedestal columns, like Cracking Down On the Drunks, by Charles Foley. The California Dining and Beverage Association is figuring out some system to deal with the menace of sloshed drunks.

The inimitable Harold Hosford's Stray Feathers: Just Stand Still And Wait For Them gave one a few needed smiles for the birds.

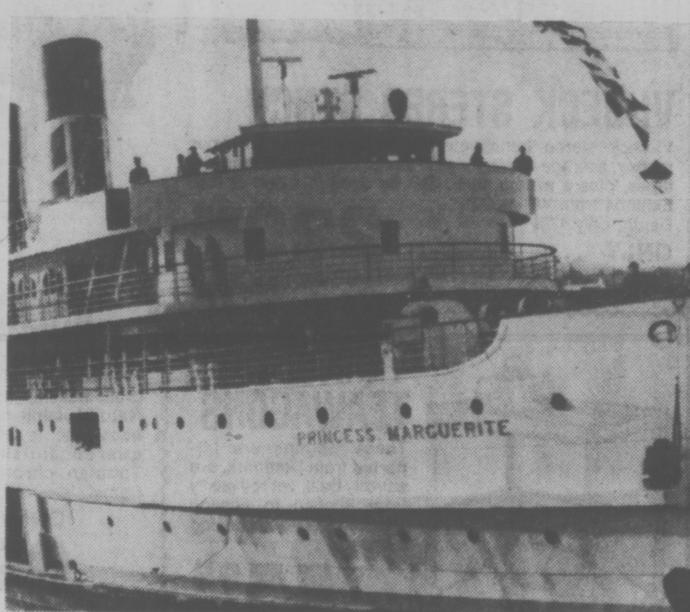

All this reading was a rescue from the perusal of the preceding page three. Ironically, each from opposite continents of our little earth were two stark reports: From Dar Es Salaam, Student Massacre Followed Protest. Dark, senseless, rampagings of Amin. From Santiago, Secret Police In Chile Skirting Law. Pinochet, the usual old breed of repressive statesmen. No answer for these two humans and their particular style of political behavior. It's age-old. As an aside it might be worth studying their similar facial casts (pictures accompanying above reports).

Another aside. How about some of our own government leaders' extremely vituperative critics (verbal and written mouthpieces) going over and trying Pinochet and Amin for size? I'd lay a wager we'd never again have breakfast with these sideline critics. — M. Anderson, 640 Dallas Road.

Attracting Tourists

Seems to me the best way to attract tourists to B.C. is to host the winter Olympic games. Word of mouth is a marvelous form of advertising and, think of it, it is free! — Olympics Enthusiast.

Princess Marguerite

Forced Retirement

It looks like the government is running true to form in making money the reason for the forced retirement of the Princess Marguerite.

The Marguerite carries 50 cars as opposed to the 180 cars that the Queen of Surrey can transport. This means more traffic congestion in a harbor area that can ill handle it. Whatever happened to the urban expert's idea of encouraging pedestrians in the downtown area?

So the Marguerite uses more crew and more fuel. But, will a ship using less of both necessarily encourage a tourist attracted to Victoria by the fact that he can get there on a stately vessel with a long Pacific coast history?

So the Queen of Surrey can make sidetrips to Port Angeles. The Marguerite never had a problem accommodating both runs until one was arbitrarily terminated.

And a convention centre? What more ideal, uniquely British Columbia use could the Marguerite be put to?

And as for her being old and requiring more maintenance, that excuse has been used to decimate more of B.C.'s history than one cares to remember. Apply the same logic to the parliament buildings and you see the weakness of the rationale.

The "dignified" end promised by Transport Minister Jack Davis? Could it be as a restaurant-cum-Disneyland attraction in the Inner Harbor? I would sooner it was scrapped.

A floating maritime museum is the only dignified end for such a ship, if an end is needed at all.

Why not keep it in service as a provincial historic site similar to the designation of San Francisco's cable cars as a U.S. national monument? It's a sad day when British Columbians, through their elected government, cherish their balanced books more than the sights of the Marguerite steaming out of Victoria harbor towards the snow-capped Olympics.

Can a Swedish ship inspire the romance of the west coast to as great a degree, or symbolize B.C. as well?

If the press of economics is so great establishing bilingualism in Canada, but only requested that the French-speaking citizens outside Quebec be given the same rights as the English-speaking citizens living in Quebec.

Your hope of seeing Canada becoming completely bilingual is rather utopian and unrealistic.

Why not accept Canada as it is today?

One nation made up of 10 provinces, with one which is trying to use French as its language of communication and nine others using English for that purpose, and one federal government with a special bilingual section for the province of Quebec.

As a Quebecer, the only thing I want is to be able to earn a good living in the province of Quebec, using French as my working language. Even today 70 per cent of the Quebecers are forced to use English in their daily routine if they want to keep their job.

So, Mrs. MacGregor, as we both believe in one Canada, why not shake hands and forget this absurd claim that B.C. is becoming bilingual? B.C. is not and will never be bilingual. — Yvon Landry, Craigdarroch Residence, University of Victoria.

Absurd Claim

Mrs. Mollie MacGregor's letter (One Nation, Aug. 4) really made me blush when she said that my letters were well-written. Unfortunately, I honestly cannot accept her praise for, if my letters were readable, it is due mostly to the good work of the Times editor, in correcting my choppiness, halting English prose.

For the past 108 years Quebec did set an example to the whole country in allowing all its citizens and immigrants to send their children to the school of their choice. In the meantime, what were the other provinces doing to protect the rights of their Japanese immigrants and their French-speaking citizens? Well, Manitoba in 1890, New Brunswick in 1895, Alberta and Saskatchewan in 1904 (when they were called the Northwest Territories), Ontario in 1917, passed their own Bill 22s forbidding the use of French in their school system for all immigrants and Canadian citizens.

Now that Quebec today, tired of waiting for the other provinces to follow its example and with the lowest birth rate of all the 10 provinces, is trying to protect its culture by forcing non-English-speaking immigrants to attend French schools, all the other nine provinces are up in arms.

I appreciate Mrs. MacGregor's concern for the French-speaking citizens in Quebec, but why not use part of this concern for the B.C. French-speaking citizens and pressure the B.C. government to allow them to choose the school of their choice?

Do you realize that if B.C. voted itself Bill 22 exactly the same as Quebec's it would have to give its French-speaking citizens the choice of French or English schools? Or do you propose that Quebec should set an example for another 108 years before the other nine provinces permit their French-speaking citizens to send their children to the school of their choice?

You've noticed that in my letter I have never requested or said anything about es-was interested in getting to know the athletes virtually ignored by the Canadian press. I didn't care that we didn't win any gold medals, as long as I knew they were doing the very best they were capable of. I feel that that is all that can be asked of them.

Take a little pride in your country, Mr. Fisher. Maybe our athletes are not the best, but they are ours and that's good enough for me.

Who knows, in four years we might not get to see any Canadian athletes. They might be all Russian. How boring! — J. Crichton, 10289 Sparling Place.

Biased Protector

The abysmally archaic thinking of some people in charge of our destiny these days is frightening.

The furor about raw milk sales, generated by Dr. Allen Arneil and supported by Dr. Scott Wallace, implies that today's raw milk production represents that of 100 years ago. In his plea for discontinuance of its sale in Victoria, Dr. Arneil, who cannot be ignorant of the fact, is failing in impartiality when he does not clarify that present-day raw milk dairies are subject to stringent inspection of premises and stock, which includes monthly testing of the milk by a representative of the provincial department of agriculture.

Without any recent evidence of an incidence of tuberculosis or other related disease, Dr. Arneil's motivation in manipulating city council into such a decision is suspect. The aforementioned system for control of raw milk has been in effect here for some period prior to 1956. Why not examine and publish the records of milk associated diseases which have occurred during the past 20 years?

The use of the word "protection" too readily allows bureaucracy to relieve us of the freedom to be responsible and in this case our biased protector, with the usual tunnel vision, has done so without thought of its effect on the livelihood of the dairy farmers or store keepers concerned. — Mary MacKenzie, 2301 Kinross Avenue.

$2,400 Limit Applied First Time

By DAN POTTIER

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The $2,400 maximum salary increase rule was applied to an executive group for the first time Tuesday by the administrator of the federal anti-inflation program.

Anti-inflation administrator Donald Tansley announced that the limit would apply to a group of seven school administrators employed by the Prescott and Russell County Roman Catholic School Board in eastern Ontario.

Tansley's decision upheld a similar recommendation made earlier by the Anti-Inflation Board. The school board had appealed to the administrator.

A spokesman for the Anti-Inflation Board said the seven officials had reached agreement with the school board for a one-year salary increase of about 29 per cent which would have provided an average pay increase of about $6,562.

The compensation plan for the seven officials took effect last September and expires at the end of this month.

Tansley said in a statement the officials were paid at the agreed rate from Sept. 1, 1975 until Jan. 13, 1976 when the AIB said the maximum should be $2,400.

Since that point, the board has been recovering the overpayments in compliance with the AIB's notification pending the administrator's ruling.

Tansley said he had the authority to permit increases larger than $2,400 in recognition of the "historical relationship" between one employee group and another.

In this case, he said, there was an historical relationship between the executive group and a group of teachers and principals employed by the same school board.

However, Tansley said it was "not sufficiently discernible" to warrant relief from the $2,400 barrier.

He said "some very compelling reasons" must exist before the limit may be breached for a group whose average compensation is sufficiently high to be restrained by the maximum.

Under the anti-inflation guidelines, salary hikes are generally limited to an eight to 12 per cent yearly range with the overriding $2,400 maximum.

Although Tansley said he found that the employer "constrained the guidelines" early in the year, he was "satisfied" with the way the overpayments were being collected.

The matter had been referred to the administrator on June 18.

Hawker-Siddley Pact Cut Asked

By DAN POTTIER

OTTAWA — The Anti-Inflation Board Tuesday asked for a live per cent cut in the first year of a wage settlement recently reached between Hawker-Siddley Ltd. of Montreal and its employees.

However, the board said it had approved the increases for the second and third years of the contract with local 6595 of the United Steel Workers of America.

The agreement, covering about 800 employees, called for a 21.4 per cent hike in the first year and the AIB said in a statement it was recommending a reduction to 16 per cent.

The agreement called for 9.06 per cent in the second year and 7.1 per cent in the third year of the three-year contract.

The submission had claimed a historical relationship with Canadian Steel Wheel, the AIB said, along with difficulty in filling certain positions.

The board said it found those claims to be valid and that is why it "allowed 4.5 per cent points above the 11.5 per cent guideline set by the AIB for the first year of the contract."

Meanwhile, the AIB also recommended an adjustment in agreements covering about 1,400 workers of the Steel Company of Canada in plants at Welland, Ont.

That decision affects workers at the Page-Hersey plant and the Welland Tube Works Plant — both Steel Company subsidiaries — who are represented by local 523 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

The agreement for the workers of the Page-Hersey plant called for increases of 19.52 per cent, 6.6 per cent and 5.35 per cent in the three years of the negotiated agreement.

The AIB recommended a reduction to 13.5 per cent the first year but would agree to increases to the guideline figures of eight and six per cent for the subsequent years.

Cullen Boosts Bilingual Policy

By PETER THOMSON

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Revenue Minister Bud Cullen Tuesday took the government's bilingualism message to an area where it has frequently been harshly criticized.

In a Vancouver speech Mr. Cullen warned that the recent dispute over the use of French by air traffic controllers have threatened to drown out an undercurrent of bigotry and prejudice, one of the keystones of parliamentary policy — bilingualism.

Concern for safety in the air has been exploited and turned into a foothold to attack and violate one of the premises on which Canada was founded, Cullen told the Lions Club of Vancouver.

He said misrepresentations by a select few whose major interest lies in promoting their own prejudices, and misinformation on the questions by "wild headline hunters" had clouded the real issue with vague insinuations about air traffic safety.

The waves of emotion roused by the strike of airline pilots and air traffic controllers have threatened to drown out an undercurrent of bigotry and prejudice, one of the keystones of parliamentary policy — bilingualism.

The situation now exists whereby a pilot trained in French in Quebec cannot even fly in his own province.

To overcome this injustice, bilingual air traffic control was originated in five small Quebec airports two years ago, at the request of Quebec controllers and with the support of their national association.

A further study is being undertaken to determine whether bilingualism can be extended throughout the province without in any way compromising safety standards, Cullen said.

What is really bothering some Canadians is much more deeply-rooted than air traffic safety, he added. It is the issue of prejudice, it is irritation through misunderstanding, which threatens to divide the nation and which has surfaced as a result of air traffic control.

"For Quebec to separate from the rest of Canada would be a tragedy for all of us, both French and English," the minister added.

"It would be an immeasurable loss for everyone, economically, politically and culturally. It would be evidence of our failure to find ways to live together with justice, tolerance, mutual respect and mutual enrichment... qualities for which Canada has been praised, envied and admired throughout the world," Cullen said.

For the past 10 years, he added, the federal government has taken its responsibility in leading on Parliament's official policy on bilingualism.

"Now, it must turn to individuals to realize that policy at a personal level," he said.

Cullen said he personally would like to see the government increase its emphasis in second language instruction in elementary and secondary schools.

N.S. Fishermen Drop Lines for Snails

HALIFAX (CP) — At one time they were considered a nuisance, but the world's gourmets have prodded fishermen in Nova Scotia into renewing their interest in escargots.

More commonly known as sea snails, the delicacy will be caught and processed for marketing in Canada and the United States by the fall of this summer.

Michael Drebot, product development officer for the provincial department of fisheries and co-ordinator of the project, said "all systems are go" for the marketing of the shell-fish.

"We should be able to sell all the escargots the fisherman can catch."

The province has spent much time and money during the last two years setting up large-scale production of the sea snail, which had previously been discarded or destroyed by Nova Scotia fishermen.

Mr. Drebot said escargots latch on to lobster traps and have been a nuisance to lobster fisherman.

"Now, Nova Scotia has the opportunity to turn this bycatch into a profitable industry."

The government has been working on the project in conjunction with O'Neill Fisheries Ltd., of Digby, N.S., and IMO Foods Ltd., of Yarmouth, N.S. The Digby firm will be responsible for steaming and processing while IMO will look after canning.

Unlike foreign imports, the ones marketed here will be thoroughly cleaned. Mr. Drebot said the European snails are canned immediately after they're caught.

Cost will be the same as French and German escargots, between $5 and $6 a package for four- to five-ounce containers.

More than 90 per cent of hotel operators and restaurateurs in the Halifax-Dartmouth area, who participated in a government-promoted tasting session about a year ago, agreed the Nova Scotia snails were of premium quality, he said.

The fisheries department has also sent new, specialized separator and washer to O'Neill Fisheries. The machine will cut the processing time in halves.

Interest in the project was initiated by a visit to a large Japanese processor of land snails about two years ago.

In addition to the sale of escargot as gourmet food, the government is considering the utilization of the smaller snails fully prepared with spices, butter and other additives.

The government is also looking at the sale of an escargot paste for use as a

Oil Offers Hope, Hazard

New York Times

ABERDEEN — A river of black oil has begun flowing to the British Isles from the North Sea. It is expected this year to reach 15 million tons, compared to last year's trickle of 1 million tons.

While this promises a much-needed boost to the British economy, many citizens there are wondering to what extent the flow threatens to sully their scenic coastlines and destroy the teeming bird life that nests there.

As evident from a tour of the region and of the booming Stavanger area on the opposite Norwegian coast, the effects are profound, sociologically as well as physically. Heroes have come forth to defend the environment and they, in turn, have given high marks to certain oil companies for heroic efforts to minimize damage.

It is also being argued that bringing oil ashore by undersea pipeline from offshore wells is less polluting than importing it by tanker from distant sources. The tankers discharge oily ballast water and periodically produce spills whereas pipelines, armored with reinforced concrete and buried in the sea floor, are relatively safe from disturbance.

That such pipes are not foolproof, however, has been demonstrated in the Shetland Islands.

The episode occurred last fall during the effort by a Shell-Exxon consortium to extract oil from the northern North Sea a project that they say is $2.7 million daily. The oil is to flow to Sullom Voe, a remote inlet in the Shetland Islands, via a 95-mile, undersized pipeline 36 inches in diameter and through a similar British Petroleum pipe.

The islands, the northernmost outposts of Britain, have been noted for their small ponies and knitted goods. Now Sullom Voe is to become Britain's chief oil port, with more than 1,000 giant tankers loading there each year.

To reach there the pipeline company, Shell Expro, chose a direct route through the islands via Yell Sound, whose floor is marked by rock pinnacles and deep canyons. Currents reach 8 knots, or more than 9 miles an hour.

To smooth the route 45,000 tons of crushed stone hauled from Scotland were dumped to form a submarine highway to the Sullom Voe area, which is relatively unimportant as a tourist attraction or sea bird rookery.

Microwave navigational stations were set up at two shore sites to enable the pipe-laying barge to keep directly over the underwater highway.

Because the pipe first touched bottom 1,000 feet behind the barge, a small submarine watched whether it did, in fact, land on the gravel bed.

Last September 400 feet of the pipe broke water, indicating that a far longer section was off the bottom. Much of its concrete armor had fallen off and, since the pipe was empty, it had become buoyant. It has now been weighted with concrete and returned to the floor of Yell Sound.

Nevertheless the question remains: What broke off the armor and might the same process rupture the pipe when transporting oil? At a conference on offshore technology held in Houston in May, Shell engineers reported that the pipe had taken considerable punishment while being laid in heavy weather. They suggested, however, that up and down motion caused by the current may have been primarily to blame. Hydro-

Pacifier A Killer

SEATTLE (AP) — A 4-month-old infant has died after apparently suffocating on a rubber nipple used as a pacifier, the King County Medical Examiner's office says.

A spokesman said Monday that Marco DeGeorge was found gasping after partially swallowing the nipple.

The parents managed to dislodge the nipple, but revival efforts failed, the spokesman said.

NAVAL SHIP SUNK BY TANKER BLOW

ROSSYTH, Scotland (UPI) — A 1,600-ton royal navy vessel involved in offshore oil rig protection duties collided with a 7,000-ton Singapore freighter in the Firth of Forth Tuesday and sank shortly afterward.

There were no casualties and the 42-member crew aboard the British vessel, the HMS Reward, were rescued before it sank, a navy spokesman said.

The collision occurred in fog in the narrow firth on Scotland's east coast, a few miles east of Edinburgh.

The collision happened as the HMS Reward was returning to dock after escorting a giant oil drilling platform out into the North Sea. The collision was outward bound from Grangemouth to Rotterdam.

It's just a one-block walk from your new home to the centre of "Village" life — with food store, travel agents, banks, a theatre, trust company, Senior Citizens Centre, hairdressers and a full range of specialty stores to cater to your shopping needs. And you'll enjoy those leisurely strolls to the waterfront — just a few minutes away. What a fine location.

Tanker at North Sea well collision happened as the HMS Reward was returning to dock after escorting a giant oil drilling platform out into the North Sea. The oil by giant tankers. They load at special moorings over the oil fields or at island transhipment centres such as Sullom Voe and Scapa Flow. Britons recall vividly the Torrey Canyon spill of 1967 that poured out 112,000 tons of oil off Cornwall, polluting beaches in Brittany more than 100 miles away.

Some tankers are of the 300,000-ton variety, while piloting will be compulsory. "Navigation is not easy in these areas," wrote Dunnet in an assessment of the problem. "There are many hazards," he continued, "such as tide races, shoals and fog among the islands. Inevitably sooner or later there must be an accident which may have very serious consequences."

Switch in U.S. Housing Style Benefits B.C.

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

There will be about 200,000 more housing units constructed in the United States this year, a moderate increase, but it is the type of housing planned that is interesting for British Columbia forest companies.

Americans are moving back into the single-family home market and away from condominiums.

This is significant for the lumber industry because detached homes use far more wood than apartment units or row housing.

In 1976, only 1.5 million housing units are expected to be started in the U.S. and a large portion of these will be condominiums. However, the prediction for 1977 is that there will be 1.7 million starts and between 70 and 80 per cent of them will be single-family homes.

The condominium market is saturated and there are a lot of empty ones for sale across the continent.

This trend means lumber sales will be up substantially in 1977 despite the modest increase in housing starts.

The impact on the British Columbia economy will be significant as most local companies rely upon orders from the U.S. for the bulk of their lumber sales.

(No corresponding trend to single-family homes can be expected in the Victoria area over the next year. In addition to all the other factors mentioned, the U.S. government provides financial assistance to promote construction of single-family homes. In Canada, government programs encourage construction of condominiums. Government aid is limited to housing units costing $45,000 or less in Victoria and no new houses are being constructed at that price. There is also a shortage of land for large-scale expansion of single-family homes, except in the Metchosin area. For these reasons, multi-family housing will continue to be stressed here, unlike the U.S.)

While the outlook is improving for B.C. lumber sales, there are more problems ahead for the pulp and paper sector. The demand for newsprint is growing but so are the number of suppliers and some of them will provide fierce competition.

Brazil in particular is expanding its pulp capacity and has the advantage of quick-growing trees. Japan is also expanding its pulp mills.

As a result, there is little incentive for North American

Munro's Figures Mislead, Morris Charges

OTTAWA — Recent statements by federal Labor Minister John Munro on the real income of workers and on the effects of the government's wage and price control program are incomplete and misleading, Joe Morris, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, charged today.

"It seems Mr. Munro only picks the figures that suit his particular political purposes and ignores those that don't," Morris said.

"This is not the type of attitude Canadians are entitled to expect from their minister of labor."

Morris has referring to statements made Monday by Munro in an address to the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen convention in Quebec city, in which the minister was reported as claiming the federal government's program of wage and price controls had actually helped increase workers' real income.

WINNER—BY A NOSE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Tom Miller, not a man to pass up a challenge, is laying claim to the world record for pushing a peanut with his nose up Pike's Peak.

Miller, an 18-year-old University of Colorado student, was studying fads and follies when he came across a reference to a man whose nose took 21 days to accomplish the feat in 1929.

At noon Tuesday, four days, 23 hours, 47 minutes, three seconds and 38 peanuts later, Miller stood atop the mountain and told tourists and reporters that he had broken the record.

Supertruck, Supertest

Supertruck built in Central Saanich is tested by MacMillan Bloedel at its Menzies Bay logging division north of Campbell River. The truck, designed by Butler Bros. Equipment Ltd., Keating Crossroad, is carrying more than 200 tons of logs. It is powered by a V-16 diesel engine mounted beside the cab. The test vehicle cost $200,000 to construct and Butler Bros. will go into production on several vehicles if the tests are successful.

Oak Bay Defeats Developer

Oak Bay council has won a court battle against a developer over an apartment project in the Willows Beach area.

In a 15-page judgment received in Victoria today, Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan dismissed actions by Monarch Holdings Ltd. for a court order compelling Oak Bay to issue a building permit under terms of a zoning bylaw before it was changed June 14 and to quash the new bylaw.

The company owns an apartment-zoned lot at 2612 Thorpe Place where it wants to demolish an old frame apartment and build a new 12-unit apartment. Under the new bylaw, the company said it would be limited to five suites.

Oak Bay introduced the bylaw, which applies to seven

Robber Jailed 3 Years

A 23-year-old knife-wielding robber was sentenced to three years in jail Tuesday after Judge William Ostler said common grocers need protection by the courts.

In sentencing Michael Sydney Clark, 23, of 118 Croft, the judge said there had been "an alarming and unacceptable increase" in holdups in Greater Victoria during recent months, particularly corner groceries.

Employees had been "intimidated, threatened and robbed by thugs armed with guns and knives" when the stores were in out-of-the-way places and the employees were often alone said Ostler, and "these people are entitled to the protection of the court."

Clark pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of a knife-point holdup of counter clerk Kitlan Lee, 17, at Niagara Grocery, 579 Niagara, about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

The prosecutor said Clark told officers his motive was that "his wife was going to do the robbery to get money to pay a fine, but he decided to do it instead." On July 26, Clark was fined $300 and put on 15 months' probation by another Victoria judge for a break-in and theft.

Victoria police said Monday that Clark had been arrested without resistance in a James Bay apartment. Tuesday, they disclosed that police had been called to the apartment late Sunday when Clark and a companion suffered overdoses of a prescribed drug.

The two were taken to Victoria General Hospital, where both quickly recovered. Police later returned to the apartment and found a shotgun and 22 shells. During questioning, Clark said he threw the knife away while running from the store.

Club Seeks Tax Cutback

The Racquet Club of Victoria wants Saanich to reduce its taxes by half but it's not likely to happen this year.

Saanich's finance, legislative and health committee, was told Tuesday the club wants the municipality to reduce this year's taxes of $59,659.53 by 50 per cent.

CHOPPER CRASHES

A Port Alberni pilot escaped uninjured this morning when his helicopter hit a power line and was forced to land on mud flats.

Port Alberni RCMP said Henry Sands was flying a helicopter owned by Forest Industry Flying Tankers when the plane hit the power line behind the MacMillan and Bloedel pulp mill.

Comptroller-treasurer Roy Broughton disagreed, saying assessments were based, as in the past, on market values, and not on the use of the property.

Broughton added some provincial assistance might be given such clubs in the future.

Meat Plant Burns

Fire Tuesday night damaged a portion of the roof and upper floor of a meat processing plant at 350 Island Highway.

View Royal fire chief Frank Bell said the fire at Van Isle Meat Packers started in a second floor wall, flared into a loft and broke out through the roof.

A passing motorist on the Trans-Canada Highway spotted smoke and flames and turned in the alarm at 6:20 p.m.

Bell said 19 volunteer firemen responded and had the blaze under control within 20 minutes.

Cause of the fire has not been determined nor is an estimate of the loss available.

No one was inside the building at the time of the fire.

Park Rowdies Raise Fears

Residents of the Meadow Park area pleaded Tuesday with Saanich's parks and recreation committee to protect their properties from rowdy park users.

"We feel, in all honesty, we deserve protection from that public park," said spokesman R. H. Klassen, of 610 Davida.

"When we try to reason with them (park users) we're subjected to obscenities."

"Do we have to go back 100 years to vigilante days? We are afraid to raise Cain with the kids because after the sun goes down what's going to happen to our properties?"

The residents contend that an eight-foot chicken wire fence installed 14 years ago is now full of holes, held by rotting posts and badly in need of replacement.

Committee members agreed the fence needs replacing but didn't think a 10-foot chain link fence should be installed at the expense of the municipality.

Mayor Ed Lum and aldermen said they were concerned tributed 50 per cent of the cost toward installation of a five-foot chain link fence on the other side of the park and had provided park equipment, raising money through hot dog sales and other ventures.

He contended those contributions given in the past entitled the residents to have the fence replaced at Saanich's expense and argued it is Saanich's responsibility to replace a fence already in existence.

Parks administrator Frank Andrews disagreed with the residents' contention that a 10-foot fence is needed to protect their properties from softballs, base balls and golf balls.

"Are you going to end up with every park looking like a prison yard?" he asked.

The committee decided to table the matter until a report on how much a 10-foot fence will cost and how much money residents have already contributed to the park is available.

Arson Fires Blamed on Youths But Police Won't Lay Charges

An investigation into a dozen arson fires in the city over the past three months has ended with Victoria police and fire department officials saying they think they know the culprits.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons and Detective Inspector Norman Bath said today the suspects include two separate groups of juveniles. One group had five members, the other three. All are in the 15 to 16 age bracket.

Though none of the juveniles have admitted they set any of the fires, Simmons and police investigators are reasonably certain they did.

Simmons said there was no clearly established motive.

"Setting fires seems to be a new violence . . . a striking out at society," the chief said.

Simmons said the larger group is suspected of having set six or seven fires including one last May in an apartment block under construction in the 100-block Menzies which caused $100,000 damage.

The smaller group was involved in a $70,000 blaze at Dalziel Box Co., 2809 Bridge, and a $10,000 fire at the Vic West Community Centre, both in July, Simmons said.

Several policemen and three fire inspectors took part in the investigation with the bulk of the work done by Lt. Ross Beasley of the fire department, and Det. Const. Fred Mills of the city police.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Would you please tell me when the Langham Court Theatre in Victoria was built and a short history if possible, D.W.

A. Langham Court Theatre was formerly a small building that served as a gym for successive private schools that occupied the mansion on the corner of Rockland and Langham Court. The mansion became a lodging house in the '20s and the gym was rented as a rehearsal hall to an operatic group and the Victoria Little Theatre.

In the middle '30s, the property went up for sale and through efforts of members and generous supporters, the Little Theatre (which later became Victoria Theatre Guild) purchased it. A long-range program was then embarked on to develop the building into one in which performances could take place.

The first full length production in the adapted building was a comedy, "Freddy Steps Out," in 1940. Other improvements, such as the modern lighting booth, are more recent additions.

Rocks Up Against Wall

Victoria Shamrocks are down to the last-chance position in the Western Lacrosse Association semifinal playoffs.

They trail Vancouver Burrards three games to one following the Burrards' 10-6 victory in the fourth game of the best-of-seven semi-final series at Richmond Tuesday night, and must win when the series resumes at Memorial Arena Thursday night to stay alive in the post-season competition.

Shamrocks, who defeated Burrards six times without loss in the regular season while winning the league championship, have failed to match that performance in the playoffs to date.

However, Burrards, who seemingly faltered badly at the close of the season, losing eight straight games, have been the dominate force in all games of the series except one. That was here on Sunday when the Irish scored their only win, a 9-8 squeaker.

Tuesday night at Richmond, it may prove to have been a double defeat for the Shamrocks. Ivan Thompson, who finished second in the league scoring race, was injured when boarded by Burrards' Taki Vohalis in the first period and saw no further action. He will have an x-ray taken of his injured shoulder today to determine the extent of the injury.

If Thompson is lost to the Rocks, it will be a serious blow to their chances.

Meanwhile, the often despised Ward Sanderson, more noted for his extra-curricular prowess than his natural lacrosse ability, picked Tuesday night to record a career high — three playoff goals — in pacing the Burrard victory.

The Irish stayed close for the first period at 2-2, but fell behind in the second when Burrards scored five times and took a 7-4 margin which they held safe in the third period.

Once again, as he has been throughout the series, goalkeeper Dave Evans was the main stumbling block for the Irish. Evans stopped 46 shots, compared to 30 saves by Skip Chapman in the Victoria goal and was particularly impressive in the third period as the Shamrocks outshot the Burrards 18-8.

Charn Dhillon, who played well here on Sunday in the Shamrocks' only win, once again commanded the spotlight. Dhillon was the only Shamrocks to score more than one goal.

He had two while singles went to Peter Rushton, Norm Baker, Danny Green, and Mike Beaupac. Dhillon also had two assists.

Other goal scorers for Burrards were Bill Rawson, Dave Tasker, Mike Smith, Ron Pinder, Bob Salt, Dick Crompton and Gord Fredericksen.

New Westminster Salmonbellies meet Coquitlam Adanacs in the fourth game of their best-of-seven semifinal series at Coquitlam tonight.

Dave Callow, a burly right-fielder, smashed out two home runs and a single to spark Seattle to an 8-0 shutout over Victoria before a crowd of approximately 1,200 fans in the Pacific Northwest Senior Babe Ruth sectional baseball championship tournament Tuesday at Royal Athletic Park.

Victory advanced the Washington State champions into the championship final at 8:30 tonight. Victoria and Oregon will meet at 6:30 with the winner advancing through the losers' bracket to face Seattle.

If another game is necessary, it will be played at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Oregon earned the shot at Victoria by beating B.C. champion Port Alberni 20-18 in the other Tuesday encounter.

Leadoff batter Gino Pichena

Lapointe Shows As Work Starts

MONTREAL (UPI) — Defenceman Guy Lapointe, after keeping his coach in the dark for days about whether he would play, finally showed up Tuesday at the first practice session of Team Canada in the Montreal Forum.

"I knew Lapointe would show up," said team head coach Scotty Bowman, who also coaches Lapointe on the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

"I know Lapointe always gets keyed up for a game. He puts so much into hockey, so I was sure he wouldn't miss the chance of playing in such an important series like this."

When invited to play on Team Canada, Lapointe kept saying he was undecided, then failed to show for Monday's gram of getting back into shape.

"We have 20 players on this team but will have to cut to 25 before Sept. 1," said Pollock. "It'll be tough to do and I'm sure there will be some disappointed players."

Managing director Sam Pollock said Orr would return to Team Canada next week after he follows a complete pro-medical exam. But he was there when the players put on their uniforms and skated around the ice Tuesday morning.

The two-a-day sessions will continue until Aug. 30. Team Canada meets five other countries in the Canada Cup international series which begins Sept. 2.

Chicago Black Hawks superstar Bobby Orr returned home after receiving his medical exams from Dr. Doug Kinneir, who pronounced him fit to play. Orr is recovering from another in a series of many operations he has had on his knee.

HELSINKI (UPI) — Brendan Foster of Britain won the 5000 metres in 13:26.34 Tuesday at the Finnish international track and field games as double Olympic champion Lasse Viren, suffering from a head cold, finished seventh in 13:42.1.

Mike Boit of Kenya won the 800 metres in 1:44.90, with Olympic bronze medalist Rick Wohlhuter of Chicago a poor sixth in 1:50.26. Boit had not been allowed by Kenyan authorities to run in Stockholm Sunday because of New Zealand's participation, but New Zealanders did not compete here.

Jim Bolding of Long Beach took the 400 metres hurdles in 49.3, with fellow American Quentin Wheeler, of New Shrewsbury, N.J., 1.2 seconds behind in third. Briton Alan Pascoe edged Wheeler for second in 50.45.

Arnie Robinson of San Diego took the long jump with a leap of 25 feet 3 1/4 inches (7.70 metres).

Jacek Wszola, Poland, with a jump of 7 feet 4 1/4 inches (2.24 metres) won the high jump over controversial Dwight Stones. The Huntington Beach, Calif., native cleared the same height but lost on more misses. Tom Woods and Roy Kotinek gave the U.S. a 2-3-4 finish.

Lang caught the ball when Winnipeg's defensive back Walker stumbled while attempting to bat the ball down and Lang then fell over the goal line for the major score. It wasn't a classic but it counted.

Dave Cutler then kicked the convert and the winning point.

Until then, it seemed the Bombers were about to hand the Eskimos their first defeat of the season. They moved in front 20-7 at the half and still held a commanding lead at 25-21.

'ONE-MAN CRIME WAVE'

WASHINGTON — "He's a one-man crime wave," says Police Capt. William Humphrey in describing prisoner Frank Sidney Joyner.

"He has committed every major crime there is except homicide."

Joyner, 35, is in jail after pleading guilty to one count of armed rape, one count of armed sodomy and one count of rape. He has given police accounts of 50 rapes, 10 armed robberies, about 80 burglaries and an uncounted number of automobile thefts.

"He is a classic recidivist, a classic repeat offender," said Assistant U. S. Attorney William Handy.

Police Detective Thomas Kelly called Joyner "an opportunist."

"If he was going to commit a robbery, he usually stole a car ahead of time," Kelly said.

"When he was stealing the car, if there was a woman in it, he would rape her."

"If he was holding up a store and there was a woman in the store, he would rape the woman. If he committed a burglary it was the same thing."

ALASKAN ANACHRONISMS Hugh Leddy and his wife Susan of Anchorage are trying to spur interest in their Society for Creative Anachronism. Purpose of the society, Leddy says, is to "recreate the Middle Ages not as they were but as they should have been." Only requirements for membership, he adds, are a "willingness to don pre-17th Century costume and behave like ladies and gentlemen of the period."

Thomson Eulogized As a Man of Humor

TORONTO — Lord Thomson of Fleet was eulogized Tuesday as a man who achieved great wealth and power, but had the sense — and the sense of humor — to enjoy them.

Thomson, who died in London a week ago at the age of 82, was honored with a brief, half-hour service at the Timothy Eaton Memorial Church. Some 450 persons attended.

Among the mourners were former governor-general Roland Michener, Ontario Lt.-Gov. Pauline McGibbon and scores of Thomson employees, and newspaper and news service executives.

Thomson's son and heir, Kenneth, 52, and his wife Marilyn led a large number of survivors at the service.

The newspaper millionaire, who gave up his Canadian citizenship in 1964 when he accepted his barony, was buried Monday in Oakville, Ont., at a private family service.

Rev. George Morrison, a close friend of Thomson for more than 30 years, traveled some 3,000 miles from a vacation in British Columbia to deliver the service.

"When you get a dynamo of a personality like Roy," he began, "how can you possibly do justice to that personality do just a few words?"

Instead, he offered a verse from Ecclesiastes: "Every man also to whom God has given wealth and possessions and power to enjoy them and to accept his lot and find enjoyment in his toil — this is the gift of God."

Morrison said attainment of wealth and power were not rare, but the power to enjoy them were.

"Here," he said, "is where this man was truly unique."

He said all Thomson's millions and the power he had had governing a vast newspaper empire translated into plain delight for him.

"They were a jolly," he said. "They were a source of good humor and fun for him."

He said that although Thomson came from a humble background and experienced many frustrations before making his fortune, "he was always one in his life and his work and his toil."

HOW TO MIX A POLAR BEAR

On the ice before you looms a white shape. It is the Smirnoff Polar Bear, a species known for its conviviality.

But you need not tread the tundra to track down this delightful creature. Just follow the simple directions and a Polar Bear will appear in your glass.

To make a Polar Bear, pour 1 1/2 oz. Smirnoff into a glass with ice, add 3 oz. milk and 3/4 oz. maple syrup. Stir.

Angry Cabbie Ran Over Firemen

NEW YORK — A taxi driver, annoyed because a fire truck was blocking traffic, allegedly ran down two firemen, injuring one critically. Police charged Edward Guerra with assault, reckless endangerment, obstructing governmental administration, leaving the scene of an accident and attempted escape. Police said the cabby was stuck in a traffic jam caused by a fire truck backing into its garage Tuesday. Enraged, he allegedly ran down two firemen, fracturing the skull of one. The second fireman was only bruised aside.

DETROIT — Detroiters may be killing each other at near-record rates, but homicide detectives say they are solving more murders than ever. The number of cases solved is higher than ever. The following entry:

WASHINGTON — On Page 139 of the final proofs of The Scribner-Bantam English Dictionary, which must go to press by Sept. 15 if the dictionary is to appear on schedule in January, there is the following entry:

"Carter, James - Kartar - (1924-) 39th president of the U.S. 1977-." The entry for "Ford, Gerald" lists his term in office as 1974-1977. "Reagan, Ronald" does not appear at all. "Of course I'm not a crystal ball reader," says the dictionary's managing editor, Walter Glanze, who decided to include the entries in the 80,000-word dictionary.

PEKING — A survivor of China's Tangshan earthquake described today how he was trapped for hours in pitch darkness after his bed crashed three floors through a collapsing hotel. Hiroshi Toyota and his colleague Tetsuo Takayama were among nine Japanese technicians from the Hitachi Co. working in Tangshan. Three of the group died and four are still in serious condition with multiple injuries. When the quake struck two weeks ago today, Toyota was jolted awake in his third-floor hotel room. "The bed was bouncing and vibrating, the walls bulging in and out. The bed dropped away beneath me. I could see nothing. A mattress landed on top of me and then heavy things seemed to be crashing down on that. I couldn't move — I was just like a sandwich between the two beds," Toyota, 37, said something struck him on the back of the head and he lost consciousness. When he came to, he heard loudspeakers and Chinese revolutionary music.

Sex and violence will continue to dominate movies until movie-goers — especially the younger ones — stop filling the theatres.

Thomas Wall, who retired last month after nearly 17 years as owner-manager of the Oak Bay Theatre, says he feels the quality of movies has deteriorated badly.

"There's a different age group going to movies now," he said. "Movies aren't made to draw older people."

The biggest age group is the 16 to 30-year-olds and as long as they keep filling theatres showing sex and violence, the movie-makers will keep producing that type of film, he said.

The Oak Bay Theatre under Wall showed second-run movies — films that were first shown downtown and then went to Oak Bay for the second series of showings.

Wall preferred that system because he could choose his movies, charge a lower admission and never have to take a film he didn't want. He was independent of the big chains.

His theatre was purchased in July by Famous Players which began showing first-run movies and charging downtown prices.

The Oak Bay Theatre was built in 1938 and has a seating capacity of 478.

Wall liked the job. He met a lot of people, and although he had a few complaints from patrons who didn't like a particular movie, nobody ever got really angry.

He doesn't have a favorite film, but says a lot of good movies were shown at his theatre. He says he isn't sure which was the audience's favorite, but named three he "showed over and over again" — Dr. Zhivago, Gone With the Wind and The Sound of Music.

"Movies, in my thinking, are for entertainment," Wall said.

A lot of movies might be considered good films, but they're so heavy they depress people, and that's not what going to the movies is all about, he said.

He said people don't follow the name stars the way they used to. A star like Clark Gable would have a regular following — people who would go to all his movies.

Today a lot of movies come out and nobody's ever heard of the actors and actresses. Such a film still attracts crowds if people hear it's a good movie, Wall said.

JAZZ WAS FLOP, BUT REALLY HOT

ARLES, France (Reuters) — Riot police charged into the bull ring of this southeastern French town after about 1,000 youths set fire to the arena in protest against the cancellation of a jazz and popular music festival.

Several persons were hurt and some rioters detained. The festival was called off shortly after it began when 11 persons were injured in clashes between stewards and youths who tried to enter without paying.

DENNIS THE MENACE

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

It cannot be demonstrated as to what might have been if our South declarer had not played mechanically to trick one. However, it is my belief that if he had made an effort to deceive the West defender, he might have fulfilled his contract instead of incurring a one-trick set.

Opening lead: King of ♦.

On West's opening lead of the spade king, East followed suit with the four, and South dropped the deuce. To trick two, West led a diamond, South winning with his ace. After picking up the trumps in three rounds, South played the club, jack and finessed against West's hoped-for king.

But East had that key card, and upon winning the trick with it, he played back a spade, trapping South's queen. So declarer lost three spade tricks and one club.

West's election not to continue with the spade ace at trick two was correct. With the spade three in dummy, and South having played the two, East's four of spades had to be the latter's lowest spade. Had East wanted spades to be continued, he would have dropped a higher spade (unless the four were a singleton, which was most unlikely, for in this case South would have been dealt the Q-9-Q-9).

Of course if West chose to lead the spade ace at trick two, South's queen would have been promoted into a winner, and his game-going trick. But, regardless as to whether or not West would have continued playing spades at trick one, certainly South is to be censured for not dropping the spade nine on the opening lead, this play had everything to gain and nothing to lose.

SOLUTION THURSDAY

LITTLE PEOPLE'S PUZZLE

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Thursday, August 12

By SYDNEY OMAR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Practical matters dominate. Key now is to inaugurate a program which focuses on accomplishment, doing rather than mere speculation. You could be on brink of discovery and profit. Older individual does have your best interests at heart.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Organize ideas — avoid scattering efforts. Individual who wants to share experience deserves a hearing. Another Capricorn could be in picture. Accent on short trip, visit, significant message.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Friendship is tested. Plans might seem to be "scrambled." However, what appears a setback is due to boomerang in your favor. Aries, Libra might figure prominently. Keep diet-health resolutions. Avoid extremes. Moderation now is your ally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): New approach to family and business affairs is featured. Highlight independence, versatility. If you are yourself, you advance. If you initiate or advocate, you lose. The choice is clear—and it is your own.

PICTURES (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Finish what you start — your potential is greater than might be apparent on surface. Money proposition is spotlighted. Whatever you do, do it in the light of logic. Avoid basing financial decisions on impulse.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Hold off on long-distance calls, travel — if practical. You need time for review, re-evaluation. Play waiting game. Collect, conserve and figure out what actually is best for you. Aquarian could be in picture.

CANCER (July 23-Aug. 22): Overcome tendency to be extravagant. Putting on a "show" to impress others would be an error. Learn what is of value to you — if this you do, you'll feel renewed, revitalized. Be as good a guest as you can be a host.

LEO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cancer 12th is your BIRTHDAY by October, you will have recovered from emotional-financial distress. You'll be stronger, too. Meantime, plant seeds and prepare program for progress. You are a good entertainer, have fine sense of humor and a weight problem. Gemini, Sagittarius play key roles in your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cancer 12th is your BIRTHDAY by October, you will have recovered from emotional-financial distress. You'll be stronger, too. Meantime, plant seeds and prepare program for progress. You are a good entertainer, have fine sense of humor and a weight problem. Gemini, Sagittarius play key roles in your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tensions are relieved; there is reunion or reconciliation with loved one. Don't permit pride to block chance for greater happiness. Highlight creativity, ability to grow, to leave behind petty actions, reality, not through idealized actions. Significant change for better occurs.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER: Eight miles to Ann's place.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get land, property appraisal. Be sure of value.

New York Times
LONDON — The telephone — it is an instrument of priceless variety.

In Greece it will tell you forever. In Japan it will calculate your mortgage. In Paris it will give you Henry Wieniawski's Polonaise in D. Opus 4, for Violin. And in Russia it will insult you.

The telephone — it is also an instrument of tyranny, a mechanical Medusa, at once irresistible and fiendish, that in Greece causes divorce, in Italy elitism, in West Germany insomnia. And in Britain it will connect you to all sorts of people you had no intention of speaking to in the first place.

One other broad finding that emerged from a recent sampling of the curiosities, cost and culture of the telephone in a half dozen nations is that Americans, despite their own complaints about rising costs, are still better off than they think they are.

On the whole, telephones in the United States — while not appreciably less expensive to run — are nevertheless easier to get hold of, cheaper to install and a good deal more reliable in connecting caller to callee than they are in most other parts of the world.

According to a recent survey by the Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development, the United States leads the world with 857 telephones per 1,000 inhabitants, followed by Sweden with 584, Switzerland with 560 and Canada with 528.

Places like Britain, Japan and Australia are in the middle range with about 350 phones per 1,000 persons, but other Western nations — including Greece, Italy, France and West Germany — show much lower figures.

France, which has only 217 telephones per 1,000 inhabitants, is suffering from acute national embarrassment over the subject, especially since the Ministry of Post and Telecommunications employs nearly two per cent of the national work force. France thus plans to spend over $20 billion over the next five years double the number of phones in the country, from seven to 15 million.

But what other nations lack in numbers they compensate for in sheer excitement. Telephones in America are more or less faultless — and often tedious — appendages of everyday life. Elsewhere they perform a higher function, testing character and probing the limits of the human spirit.

Britain is a case in point. Like the United States, it is one of the few nations in the world where a phone can be ordered and installed in a week. Its operators are unfailingly polite, and its costs (despite a three-fold increase since 1969) are still relatively modest.

But the bleeps, the whirrings, the chance encounters! Last year, according to one survey, one out of every eight calls in London went wrong — no ringing tones at the other end, no dialing tones at all, inexplicable cut-offs, crossed lines.

An American journalist tried to reach his office the other day and found himself talking to a woman in suburban Wimbledon. They discussed the drought. Then a third party appeared on the line. She was interested in the drought, too.

Then all three found a second area of common interest: the telephone system. As it turned out, each person's phone needed repair in the previous month — random confirmation of another recent survey that would show that nearly half of all telephones in Britain have been out of order at some point during the last 18 months.

The French, too, suffer from crossed lines, but mainly they suffer from obsolete circuitry, which sometimes requires a caller to try the same number 20 times.

On the great scale of frustration, few countries rate as high as the Soviet Union, where only 1 in 15 citizens owns a telephone. Areas. Owners must also pay for a listing in the telephone directory, which itself is six years out of date.

Long-distance calls are fraught with adventure. A new direct-dial system, for example, assumes strong fingers and a clear mind: To Leningrad from Moscow, one must dial a four-digit prefix, then a seven-digit number for Leningrad, and then, for some reason, the caller's own seven digits. The call does not always go through.

Perhaps in Russia it is just as well to fail to get through. Russians employ a telephone etiquette that can be most generously described as brusque. Phones are frequently answered with "slushayu" ("I'm listening"). Wrong numbers may get rebuffed with "Nye papali tuda" ("You didn't get there"), along with an exasperated slam of the receiver.

Waiting lists are long, in part because so much new housing is being built in urban

Rare Pictures Testimony to Late Photographer

By ROSEMARY PITCHER
KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Glimpses of the slow-paced Mennonite world have been captured in rare photographs by a dedicated Kitchener photographer, Richard Sutton, who died of cancer this spring.

Many of the photographer's outstanding works have been collected and put on display at the Kitchener-Waterloo Art Gallery.

They represent an insight into the unruffled, peaceful world of the Old Order Mennonites whose farms dot the Waterloo County countryside.

Little pigtailed, long-skirted Mennonite girls are caught swinging high on swings, laughing on a teeter-totter or just shyly giggling in a little group. He has captured barn raisings, Old Order Mennonites in buggies or sleighs or just walking.

There is nothing posed in any of the photos. The collection of 100 photographs have captured a fleeting moment in the everyday life of the Old Order Mennonites forever.

One of the most sensitive is that of an elderly Old Order Mennonite and a little city boy seated side by side at a coffee bar. Each holds an identical paper cup of pop but they are worlds apart.

Chief photographer at Kitchener-Waterloo Record, Mr. Sutton's photographs appeared during his 21 years on the paper.

Although he was equally proficient at taking spot news action shots, Mr. Sutton's preference was the Old Order Mennonite country in the Elmira and St. Jacobs' areas where he found "relief from the harsh realities of life."

Although Old Order Mennonites generally shun photographers, the quiet assurance of Mr. Sutton was not disturbing. There was nothing brash about this photographer. He walked quietly, almost shyly in and out of Mennonite land and somehow he was accepted.

The collection includes other glimpses into everyday life in addition to the Mennonite ones — The Hand of Mr. Poplaw portrays numerous small hands pushed out of a school fence to grasp the hands of a lonely old man. There is a photo of a woman so immersed in the conversation she is holding in a telephone booth she is unaware of firemen scrambling above fighting a fire. The collection has attracted many to the art gallery since the exhibition opened there June 4.

In September, 1974, Mr. Sutton learned he had cancer and was given 19 months to live. He laid down his camera forever this spring before his last admission to hospital. He died May 3. He was 45.

Hot salmon slaw is speckled with celery seed

Unusual Cabbage Recipe Turned Out Exceptional

Mary Moore

You have to trust me. This recipe seems unusual and is. The vegetables are stir-fried until crisp as the Chinese do and the result is surprising. We raised our eyebrows as we took our first forkfuls and kept right on and wanted more. In addition it is quick and easy. Great for career girls and guys. Believe me. Go ahead and try it.

HOT SALMON SLAW (serves 4)

74 oz. can salmon, drained
2 tbsp. oil
4 cups FINELY shredded cabbage (see below)
1/4 cup shredded carrot
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. vinegar
1/2 tsp. sugar
1 tbsp. celery seed (YES-1 tbsp.-see below)
shake of salt
1/4 cup genuine mayonnaise (not salad dressing)

Open the can of salmon, drain off the liquid (and drink it!). Break the salmon into small chunks.

Shred the cabbage as finely as you can with a razor-sharp knife or Feenster shredder. Grate or shred the carrot. Chop the green pepper. In a large frying pan heat the oil and add the vegetables and stir-fry about 5 minutes. They should be tender-crisp. Do not overcook. Remove from heat while you measure and sprinkle over the vinegar, sugar, celery seed (do not stint—use all of the celery seeds) and salt. Add the drained salmon and toss. Cover frying pan for about 1 or 1 1/2 minutes to heat through. Remove from heat. Quickly stir in mayonnaise and serve.

We served ours with new green beans from my garden and whole wheat rolls. A different and delicious supper.

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Miss Eliza Leslie of Philadelphia, one of the greatest U.S. cookbook writers of the past century, was all for fritters. She compared them with pancakes which, she said, "are very inferior to good fritters, and much more troublesome to bake." She recommended four different kinds of fruit fritters.

We wish Miss Leslie could have tasted the fritters made recently in our test kitchen with nectarines. We feel sure she would have approved.

Wedges of the lovely fruit were encased in a light-as-air batter and fried until the coating was crisp and brown.

Sprinkled copiously with superfine sugar, they are a delectable dish to serve with fresh pork or ham, chicken or turkey for a dessert.

We used our 12-inch electric skillet for frying the fritters because it's roomy enough to do so in just two batches. If you use this speedy way, one caution. Add the batter-dipped nectarine wedges slowly to the skillet, one at a time, so that the temperature of the oil is not reduced too drastically while they are going in.

NECTARINE FRITTERS

4 large nectarines
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 large egg, separated
1/4 cup milk
Oil for deep frying
Superfine sugar

Rinse and dry nectarines. Cut each into 8 wedges.

Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. In a small mixing bowl beat egg yolk and milk to combine; gradually stir into flour mixture; disregard lumps.

In a small mixing bowl with a clean beater, beat egg white until stiff; fold into flour-milk mixture.

Dip one nectarine wedge at a time into the batter, allowing excess to drip back into the bowl, and drop into deep oil that has been heated to 375 degrees. Do not crowd in oil.

Fry until brown on bottom sides—1 minute; turn and brown other sides. Remove with slotted spoon and drain well on brown paper or paper toweling, keeping one batch of fritters hot in a warm oven while others are being fried.

Serve hot sprinkled with superfine sugar; pass extra sugar.

Makes 32 small fritters—4 to 6 servings.

NECTARINES MAKE FINE FRITTERS

One-Time Love Potion Still Something Special

The English called it "lady's finger," African slaves brought it to America as an early ingredient for "soul food" and for a time it was regarded as a love potion.

At any rate, the green seed pod known as okra is a versatile vegetable with a long history. It is believed to have originated in ancient Abyssinia, and years later made its way to Europe. The French liked it so much that they took some seeds to Louisiana in the early 1700s and it became a keystone of creole cooking.

A member of the mallow family, okra was popular in Egypt at about the time that Antony was courting Cleopatra, which may have given rise to the love potion idea.

This theory persisted and there are accounts of a hunger strike staged in 1728 by a group of "mail order brides" who had been sent to Louisiana to make homes for the French settlers. The dissolute grooms, according to the story, finally whipped up a batch of gumbo with liberal additions of okra and served it to the rebellious brides, thus ending the strike.

Okra is not grown in many parts of the country, so the fritter recipe contained here calls for it frozen.

1 cup all-purpose flour

1/2 teaspoon salt

8 1/2 teaspoon white pepper

1/2 teaspoon minced onion

2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon melted butter
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1 10-ounce package frozen cut okra

Stir first five ingredients together. Stir in eggs, melted butter and evaporated milk. Fold in okra, cooked as directed on package and drained. Drop by tablespoon into hot fat. Fry till lightly browned and puffed, about 2 minutes per side. Makes about 12 fritters.

YOU CAN'T BEAT Home-made GOOD

Good news for peach lovers! The B.C. peach season is now in full swing with the arrival of B.C. Red Havens—the peaches specially grown to let you enjoy B.C. peaches earlier in the summer.

B.C. Red Havens have become great favourites for fresh eating and because of their full flavour they're fast becoming popular for home-canning too.

Treat your family with these "peachy" ideas—and for that same sunshine flavour all winter long, be sure to try the cool and easy "no cook" freezer jam.

B.C. PEACHES

UNCOOKED PEACH FREEZER JAM*

3 cups mashed B.C. Peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 cups granulated sugar
1/2 bottle Certo fruit pectin

Mix peaches, lemon juice and rind. Add sugar; stir 5 minutes until sugar dissolves. Let stand 20 minutes. Stir in pectin. Ladle into cartons, filling to within 1/2 inch of top. Cover with cloth and let stand until jelled. Cover and freeze. Thaw before serving. Store in refrigerator after opening. Leave for 1 month before thawing to use.

*Freezer jams will have a softer consistency than jams made in the conventional manner.

PEACH JAM

4 cups prepared fruit
1/4 cup lemon juice
7 1/2 cups sugar
1 bottle Certo fruit pectin

First prepare fruit. Peel and pit about 2 quarts fully ripe peaches. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add 1/4 cup lemon juice.

Add sugar to fruit in saucepan, mix well. Place over high heat, bring to full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, at once stir in Certo. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle into glasses. Cover at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin.

Yield: About 11 medium glasses.

All ingredients should be washed if necessary and chilled. Peel, pit and slice peaches; tear Romaine and Spinach into bite-size pieces; pare, pit and slice avocado; halve tomatoes. Toss all ingredients together lightly. Serve with your favourite French or Catalina dressing. Serves 8.

PEACH SHERBET

3 large ripe B.C. peaches
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 3/4 cups granulated sugar
1 cup water
2 egg whites

Peel, pit, and chop peaches. Place in electric blender with lemon juice. Blend at high speed until smooth; transfer to a bowl. Combine 1 1/2 cups of the sugar with the water in a saucepan; simmer 5 minutes, stir into the peach puree; chill. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks; gradually beat in remaining sugar; continue beating until stiff, but not dry. Pour the peach puree over the egg whites, folding in with a rubber scraper until well blended. Pour into ice cube trays. Freeze until firm around the edges, about 2 hours. Transfer to a bowl; beat 1 minute, return to trays. Freeze until firm, about 6 hours. Serves 6.

QUICK DESSERTS WITH FRESH PEACHES

Bake 6 ripe peeled B.C. Peaches cut into halves, covered, at 350° F. for about 50 minutes in a syrup made with 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup dessert wine, 1/2 teaspoon mace, basting fruit occasionally. Let stand in syrup until cool. Serve with dollops of whipped cream, topping, dairy sour cream, or plain yogurt. Serves 6.

Prepare 2 envelopes of whipped topping mix as directed on package; fold in ripe B.C. Peach slices and maraschino cherry halves to taste, with 1/4 cup coconut. Pour into 9 x 5 inch loaf pan; freeze about 3 hours. Serves 4.

PEACH DESSERT SAUCE

4 ripe fresh B.C. Peaches
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup granulated sugar

Peel and slice peaches. Place in blender with remaining ingredients. Blend at medium speed until well mixed. Transfer to a saucepan; simmer 15 minutes; chill. Serve over ice cream, cake, pudding, waffles, etc. Makes about 2 cups.

SWEDISH APPLE CAKE

1 cup soft butter or margarine
 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/4 cups sifted flour
 1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 6 cups coarsely grated peeled apples
 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 2 egg yolks lightly beaten
 2 egg whites
 1/4 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/2 to 1/2 cup slivered blanched almonds
 1/3 cup butter, one-third cup brown sugar, flour, graham cracker crumbs and salt in a bowl. Mix with a fork and then fingers to make a crumbly mixture. Measure out two-thirds cup of mixture and set aside. Press remaining mixture in bottom of a 13x8x2-inch greased pan.

Bake in a 375 deg. F. oven for five minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 325 deg. F. Combine half cup brown sugar and cinnamon, stir in apples, lemon rind and egg yolks. Mix well. Spread over baked crust in cake pan. Sprinkle with two-thirds cup of reserved crumbs.

Bake about 30 minutes or until set and lightly browned. Increase oven temperature to 400 deg. F. Beat egg whites and salt until frothy. Gradually add 1/2 cup brown sugar and beat until stiff and glossy. Spread over apples. Sprinkle with almonds. Bake 10 minutes or until meringue is lightly browned. Cool before serving. 6-8 servings.

More Than Color in Brown Rice

Rice appears fairly often on restaurant menus as an accompaniment to fish. But have you noticed it is always pure white and fluffy? When using rice as an extender for small quantities of meat or as a substitute for meat, be sure to have brown rice on hand. From it you will get a higher count of minerals and protein than from white, and these help to replace those of the missing meat.

But still it is a wise homemaker who combines the brown rice with other protein sources to make delicious and nutritious meals at low cost. No single substitute protein replaces all the components of meat considered necessary for nutrition, but each contributes different components.

Whether cooking for several or for one person, these suggested recipes will be economical alternatives to regular meat meals and are helpful in lowering the total cost of food over a month of purchases.

Many rice dishes turn out as complete main courses, for it is easy to add vegetables.

In some cases it is better to cook the vegetables separately

TURNPUP CASSEROLE

6 medium white turnips

1/4 cup brown rice

1/4 cup millet

1/4 tsp salt

1 cup water

Liquid from cooking turnips

1 Tbsp soft margarine

1 Tbsp brown sugar

A pinch of powdered

ginger

White summer turnips are at their best when a little

enough salted water to barely

keeping liquid to add later.

The brown rice and split

green peas can be boiled together and partly used for another dish the day before, or separate leftovers. Either are satisfactory.

Mix all ingredients in a greased casserole. Bake without cover in moderate oven 45 minutes or until set and lightly brown. Serve 4. Use with salad of uncooked zucchini and a mound of grated carrot topped with plain

and delicious, economical too.

A third rice dish does not require oven heat; though it may be put into a moderate oven for a half-hour if browning

VAN ISLE PERMA COATINGS

Through the long summer evenings the aroma of barbecue cooking fills the air. Combating summer rains, suffering burned fingers and smarting eyes is nothing compared to eating food that seems to taste so much better prepared in the open air.

Charcoal pieces, briquets and sticks are all suitable as fuel. Light the fire with a fire starter and let it burn 30 to 40 minutes. When the coals are covered with grey ash, you can start to barbecue.

For grill-barbecuing, arrange the coals 1/2 to 3/4 inch apart. This reduces the flare-up from dripping fat.

The ever-popular hamburger is still the main attraction for many outdoor chefs. Here are a few simple tricks for making sure the burgers come off the grill,

"mouth-watering" delicious.

Grill the burgers until good and brown before turning and flip only once. If your meat seems to be cooking too slowly, you may need a bigger fire bed or should wait awhile before loading the grill.

Something Different on the Table ... For $220

Bonwit Teller, the exclusive New York store, is offering a three-piece handcrafted dinner set, which consists of dinner plate, bowl and handleless cup designed by Lynn Herszman, a California artist, and executed by Dianne Flyre, a potter.

In one design, a pair of glassy blue eyes protrude from an off-white plate or bowl (one eye stares out from the handle-less cup). In another design, hungry pink mouths, some with marvellously real teeth, rim the plate. In another, a toothy mouth chomps at the plate and bowl, leaving an irregular, bitten edge in its wake.

There are 10 designs in all, each zanier than the next, done in limited editions of 500. The price for the three-piece plate setting (plate, bowl and cup) is $220.

Recently, I dropped into my butcher's shop to pick up some odds and ends to create a very special multi-course Chinese dinner. All I wanted was a big chicken, a hunk of boneless pork, one small lean steak, some chicken wings and such but my butcher hit me with a lovely whole blade roast superbly rolled and weighing almost 12 pounds.

"Okay, mate, cut it in half," I said, "I'll take it."

I wrapped one and dropped it into the freezer and put the other half in the fridge, unwrapped on a rack set on the heat, turning the beef slices over and serve when ready.

And since the oven is not in use, I add my special side dish, popovers.

Break three eggs into a bowl, add a teaspoon of salt; beat well, beat in a cup of flour and then a cup of milk. Melt two tablespoons of butter then add and stir into the mixture.

Heavily grease a dozen muffin pans, two-thirds fill each with the stirred mix and place into a cold oven and turn the oven on to 425 degrees.

In some ovens, the popovers will be ready in 30 minutes, in others, 45 minutes — it all depends on ovens and elevation. Popovers take almost an hour in my oven. Just check until they are well risen and browned nicely.

was just out of this world, and since it was a big roast for the four at the table on Sunday, I reaped the bonus of a

very tender beef for a glorious dish the following day — Roast Beef Redbridge.

This quickie meal is useful to homemakers who work and have limited time to do a quick meal.

Take a thick slice of beef off the roast — one for each dinner.

Heat two tablespoons of butter in a heavy skillet and add the beef slices in turn,

sauté until warmed through.

You can put them on a warmed plate in turn until all are finished.

Now this was a beautifully aged piece of beef, so I planned to cook it the next day. Had it been less aged, I would have left it in the fridge for up to five days.

For dinner, I got it out early and left it to reach room temperature and since it weighed just under six pounds, I set the oven at 250

degrees and put it on a rack in a shallow pan at noon for dinner at six.

There is no such thing as a recipe for cooking a beef roast to perfection because there are so many variables

— one must play it by ear and instinct. The way a beef roast cooks depends on your oven,

on your height above sea level and a dozen intangibles.

I cover my big beef roasts with a layer of fat, beef dripping if I have it, lard or a layer of shortening if I haven't, then start it in a low, slow oven, stick in a meat thermometer and get prepared to raise the oven heat to 375 degrees at any time within an hour to an hour and a half before dinner time. I'm after a crusty dark exterior and rare to medium rare all the way through inside.

Honey's Only Better for Bees

By RUTH FREMES and ZAK SABRY

How often have you been told that you should eat honey, a natural product, rather than white sugar, a refined, processed product? Or that brown sugar is better for you than white sugar? All that just not true. It's nonsense.

Nutritionally, there just isn't much to choose between white sugar, brown or yellow sugar, raw sugar, honey and molasses. They all contain large amounts of sucrose, the chemical name for table sugar, an sucrose is calories not fat.

White sugar is pure sugar, completely refined. According to food and drug regulations white sugar must "contain not less than 99.8 per cent sucrose."

Brown sugar is a refined sugar, about 65 per cent sucrose, while dark or blackstrap molasses is about 55 per cent sucrose.

The rest is mainly water and mineral residue impurities. Molasses, like all other forms of sugar, are high in calories and low in nutrition.

Light or table molasses contain about 65 per cent sucrose, while dark or blackstrap molasses is about 55 per cent sucrose.

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.
I came across a line in a newspaper that said that glaucoma is the greatest cause of blindness. This terrified us because my mother has it, and so does her sister. Is this condition hereditary? — Mrs. J. D.

Dear Mrs. D.:
It is true that unrecognized glaucoma is probably the greatest single reason for impaired vision and even blindness.

There was a time when this condition may have been overlooked. Today, however, any complete eye examination by an eye specialist (ophthalmologist) or optometrist must include the test for glaucoma.

Glaucoma is a condition in which there is an increased pressure of the fluid that normally lies within the eyeball. A tiny instrument, a tonometer, quickly, easily and painlessly tests the fluid tension within the eyeball.

Glaucoma is not a cancer. Glaucoma is not an infection. Glaucoma is not contagious. Glaucoma is not a cataract. Glaucoma is not hereditary.

Once the diagnosis of glaucoma is established, it means that treatment with drugs under the observation of the eye specialist is essential. Most cases of glaucoma can be kept under control without surgery. In special situations, a safe and relatively simple operation is performed.

Can anti-allergy pills be taken indefinitely without causing side effects? — Mr. N. E.

Dear Mr. E.:
A safe rule for taking any medicine is that they be taken only for the prescribed period of time.

Most anti-histamine, or anti-allergy, drugs are excreted from the body in about 12 hours. Consequently, the action of the drug ceases after this period of time.

If any side effects are caused by these pills they are usually evident shortly after one has begun to use them. It is extremely rare for side effects to occur at a later date.

Should side effects occur, the drugs should be stopped. Then, shifting from one anti-allergy medicine to another is frequently suggested by doctors.

Once the diagnosis of glaucoma is established, it means

A New Boarder Could Cut Desire

DEAR ABBY: Can you help me? I have a problem with my thoughts. Because we needed the income, my wife and I rented our spare room to a young woman. I never would have done it had I known how it would affect me.

This young lady has her own friends and regards me as an "old codger," but I must confess that I have been having some very impure and indecent thoughts about her.

Isn't there some medicine I can take to clear away unwanted thoughts? How about the tiny electric shocks they give baptists? Like from two penlight batteries?

I hope you won't think I am an evil-minded old man. There must be other men past 75 with my problem. I might add, my wife cannot respond to me. — DEEP DOWN.

DEAR DEEP: I admire your honesty and integrity. I consulted a psychiatrist about your problem, and he said that under similar circumstances, he might be proud and pleased to have such healthy masculine feelings at your age — which is nothing to be ashamed of.

But since this young woman's presence makes you feel guilty and ashamed, why not rent the room to another "old codger"?

The psychiatrist recommends that you forget about electric shock and says there is no medicine that will abolish sexual fantasies — short of a general anesthetic.

DEAR ABBY: I plan to be married soon. We both have grown children by previous marriages.

I have some property, savings, etc., that I want my children to have, and I do not wish any of it shared with the children of my spouse-to-be.

Assuming that I die first, and still allow my spouse the use of my assets during her lifetime?

Are prenuptial agreements legally binding? Or should another written document be prepared and notarized?

Could my wishes as stated in a properly executed will be ignored? — IN LOVE AND IN DOUBT?

DEAR IN: Unless you want to add "IN TROUBLE" to your signature, I urge you to have all of your questions answered by your lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOURTEEN AND WORRIED STIFF": Tell your mother today. I promise you she will not kick you out of the house. If you just can't tell her, please send me your name and address. I think I can help you.

By Lynn and Joel RappDear Readers:We recently received a letter from an 81-year-old woman who has lived in Seattle for years and is a true lover of nature. She wrote a poem about her favorite dogwood tree, and we thought it would be worthwhile to pass it along to you. So here, from C.O. in Seattle, is "The Dogwood Tree."

The beauty of the Dogwood Tree

Is like a fairy tale to me

The gleaming of its feathers white

Is like a moonbeam in the night

It stands so tall and gleams anew

Each April when the skies are blue

The robin loves its sheltering boughs

To seek what shelter that it allows

From rain — in early morning hours

And sits and sings among its bowers

The land is all aglow with light

The Dogwood trees are shining bright

Accuser Accused—Who Hears?

By JOHN SAAR

Washington Post

SEOUL—Though handouts and white prison uniforms identify the official defendants in South Korea's most important post-war political trial, the man most often accused is their accuser—the country's dictatorial ruler, President Park Chung Hee.

While absolutely denying charges that they plotted to overthrow the government, the 18 defendants—all prominent Christians—have used their trial to mount a fearless and searing assault on Park's 15-year stewardship. Under the eye of a scowling prosecutor, in a courtroom cordoned off from downtown Seoul by agents of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency, they have accused the president of destroying democracy, repressing freedoms, oppressing the poor, encouraging prostitution for foreign-exchange earnings, "selling" the country to Japanese business interests and endangering South Korea's survival by perpetuating dictatorship.

The trial is now in its fourth month, and defence sources say it represents possibly the last opportunity to salvage the democracy the United States has attempted to establish in South Korea at a cost of 33,000 lives in the Korean War and $10 billion in economic and military aid.

In an apparent effort to bring the trial to a speedy close, prosecutors demanded last week sentences ranging from three to 10 years in prison. Defence efforts to give a summation of its case were denied by the court.

Conducted in an atmosphere of intimidation and hostility, the trial has consummated the polarization between Park's government and its politically moderate critics.

In one session white-haired Hahn Suk Hun, 75, revered for his Quaker beliefs and record of patriotism, gestured at his fellow defendants and told the three judges: "I consider these people the best of our intelligentsia."

"They're fine people, the cream of the crop," a western diplomat concurred. They include former president Yun Po Sun, '78; former presidential candidate Kim Dae Jung; former foreign minister and opposition law-maker Chung II Hyung and his wife, Yi Tae Yung, the country's first woman lawyer; five Catholic priests and four Protestant pastores.

Eleven have been held under arrest and all 18, according to the prosecution, played some role in preparing a "Declaration for the Restoration of Democracy" read during an ecumenical mass at the Myondong cathedral in Seoul on March 1.

The document asked President Park to resign, to revoke the "revitalizing" constitution he promulgated under martial law in 1972 and to restore freedom of speech, press and assembly. The government says the document was a plot aimed at arousing popular uprisings.

The trial has engendered bitterness on both sides. "We hope they will be found guilty," said Justice Minister Wang San Duk. "They claim they are not Communists but they are siding with the Communists in their attempt to overthrow this government and their activities violate a provision of our anti-Communist law," he said.

Equally extreme is the view of Chung Kyun Mo, a South Korean journalist and supporter of Jim Dae Jung who lives in self-exile in Japan. "Park Chung Hee is a traitor trying patriots as criminals," he said.

The defendants themselves, although occasionally impasseioned while testifying, have been determined, calm and philosophically cheerful.

Behind the trial is a history of struggle between Park, a former general who seized power in a 1961 coup, and a mixture of Western-influenced

B.C. Protects 80-Acre Comox Marshland

The provincial government will ensure protection of an 80.54 acre marshland near Comox under a 99-year lease with the National Second Century Fund of B.C.

Recreation Minister Grace McCarthy announced that the province made the leasing arrangements at a cost of $1 to help preserve the ecologically important marsh.

The land will be managed by the fish and wildlife branch and will provide a natural attraction to area residents as well as schools' outdoor education programs.

church and political leaders who have opposed his gradual eradication of democracy with obstinate ferocity.

As architect of the country's dynamic economic growth, Park has shown an increasing intolerance with those he sees as impeding his nation-building mission. Since the 1972 constitution granted him unlimited power and tenure as president, the pursuit of national unity has intensified and the margins of permissible opposition have narrowed.

An American missionary—turned into what he termed "a professional trial-goer"—believes that the government is headed for moral defeat.

"The statements these people are making are brilliant and devastating. They are challenging the whole system of government and ripping it to shreds," he said.

From his regular courtroom seat, the priest vastly overestimated public awareness. The sympathetic spectators nod, smile and clap their approval, but little of the criticism they find so satisfying filters out into South Korean society.

Symbolically, the defendants are denied a microphone. Their voices are audible in the confines of the courtroom, but the general public hears only muffled whispers. Admission to the courtroom is limited to about 200 ticket-holding friends and relatives and the brief, flatly worded reports carried by the censored news media reduce a momentous national debate to police blotter dullness.

The judges have been tolerant in allowing the defendants to deliver long orations, often including opinions that would warrant immediate arrest outside the court. This is done, according to some observers, so the government can allow the appearance of an open trial.

Most close to the case believe convictions are certain.

Speculation in Seoul is already running way ahead of the verdict, with many predicting light or suspended sentences to avoid the risk of unwelcome U.S. publicity.

FARMERS SEEK AID

In Britain, fears are rising that shortages of water may force some factories to reduce operations or even close down.

Worst hit is South Wales, where there is domestic water rationing. Beginning next week, about one million people will have their water supply cut off for 12 hours each night.

Weathermen say there likely will not be any heavy rain-

and water officials say industry will have to cut its use of water by 50 per cent if there is no substantial rainfall in three weeks.

In Switzerland, the most recent effects of the drought have been on Geneva's annual festival, which includes a parade with 21 flower-decked floats.

Festival organizers usually need about 300,000 flowers, but officials say they are short 50,000 flowers this year.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 23-year-old Mill Bay man will be sentenced Aug. 17 in Victoria provincial court after pleading guilty Tuesday to two charges of possession of stolen property involving a total of $11,631 worth of photographic equipment.

James Murray Humphreys was remanded in custody for sentence by Judge William Ostler following pleas of guilty to four counts in three charges, with prosecutor Robert Mulligan providing the details.

On July 15, said Mulligan, Humphreys led police to a storage area in an Esquimalt Road apartment building and showed them $6,466 worth of photographic equipment taken in June from a Victoria studio.

On the same day, police recovered $5,165 of similar equipment taken in June from an Esquimalt studio.

Then on July 24, Saanich police ended a high-speed chase by stopping Humphreys for dangerous driving and possession of a stolen $2,500 car. Mulligan said Humphreys was on two terms of probation imposed last December and March for possession and other offences.

Edmontonian David Allen Smith, 26, pleaded not guilty before Allan to a Victoria charge of failing to remain at an accident scene Aug. 1 and had his trial set for Jan. 17.

The charge was laid in connection with the traffic death of Zeballos and Kyuquot fisherman Richard John, 25, on Esquimalt near Dallas.

In the court section of Judge Blake Allan, Stephen Anthony Larter, 18, of 1710 Kenmore, was instructed to apologize to a number of property owners affected by Larter's crimes — and was also jailed for 30 days, put on probation for nine months and told to do 50 hours of community work.

Larter pleaded guilty July 12 to four charges containing a total of 12 counts of theft and two of possession of stolen property in May and June in Saanich and Esquimalt.

The 14 counts concerned thefts of tape decks and gasoline cans from cars and tools from building sites. The apologies are to go to the owners of those items.

A $500 fine for possession of a small amount of marijuana was imposed by Ostler against Philip Alexander Gatenby, 26, of 29 Paddon, who pleaded guilty to the Victoria charge.

Prosecutor Nicholas Lott said Gatenby had a record dating back to 1968 and including two previous convictions for possession of a narcotic.

Ostler told Gatenby that "you don't seem to be making much of an effort to stay out of jail" but a jail sentence would not be imposed this time because the two earlier narcotics cases occurred two years ago and close together.

The difference in what Ostler indicated was a borderline discharge case turned out to be the one previous conviction of Steven John Witwicki, 17, of Munro Road.

Witwicki pleaded guilty to a Saanich charge of theft of three wheels and three tires worth a total of $407 early July 28 from a damaged car parked opposite 4315 Prospect Lake Road. Defence lawyer Don Newton asked for a conditional discharge because that was the sentence Aug. 3 for Witwicki's partner in the crime.

But Ostler noted the other youth had a clean record while Witwicki had one previous conviction of Steven John Witwicki, 17, of Munro Road.

Can Quake Spur Output?

HONG KONG (WP) — In their constant search for ways to motivate workers without raising wages, China's leaders have begun to make use of the nation-wide concern over the great July 28 earthquake.

Official news dispatches in the last few days have particularly stressed the need for greater effort in the steel and coal industry, one of China's most-troubled enterprises and the one probably most affected by heavy earthquake damage to the coal-mining centre of Tangshan.

"Produce more coal in support of the quake-stricken area," is a new slogan raised by strip-mining workers in the Manchurian province of Liaoning, according to the New China News Agency.

Another Chinese agency dispatch from Shanghai said workers there had won "remarkable successes in grasping revolution and promoting production so as to make up for the loss in the stricken area. Workers at the Shanghai No. 5 Iron and Steel plant, the dispatch said, were putting in long hours to switch production to grades of steel that had been turned out at Tangshan.

To further the new campaign, the Chinese media have focussed attention on efforts to resume production in Tangshan itself. A lengthy report monitored here late Sunday says "all but a few of the 10,000 night shift miners working in the Kailuan mines (in and about Tangshan) successfully got out of the pits within a few hours after the quake."

"After several days of hard work," the report said, power supply has been restored in all the eight collieries under Kailuan. Drainage has begun in the Machiakou, Luchiatu and Linsi collieries. Production has been resumed in some of the pits of the Machiakou colliery, and the first post-quake load of coal has been lifted out of the No. 3 pit.

The official reports make no effort to detail the extent of damage to Tangshan's coal and steel production facilities. The north China city, 100 miles east of Peking, is thought by analysts here to be China's single most productive source of the coking coal needed for steel production.

Even before the massive earthquake, which centred

very close to Tangshan, China's steel industry appeared to be growing slower than other sectors of the economy.

The new official dispatches show Peking's concern how this new setback will affect output.

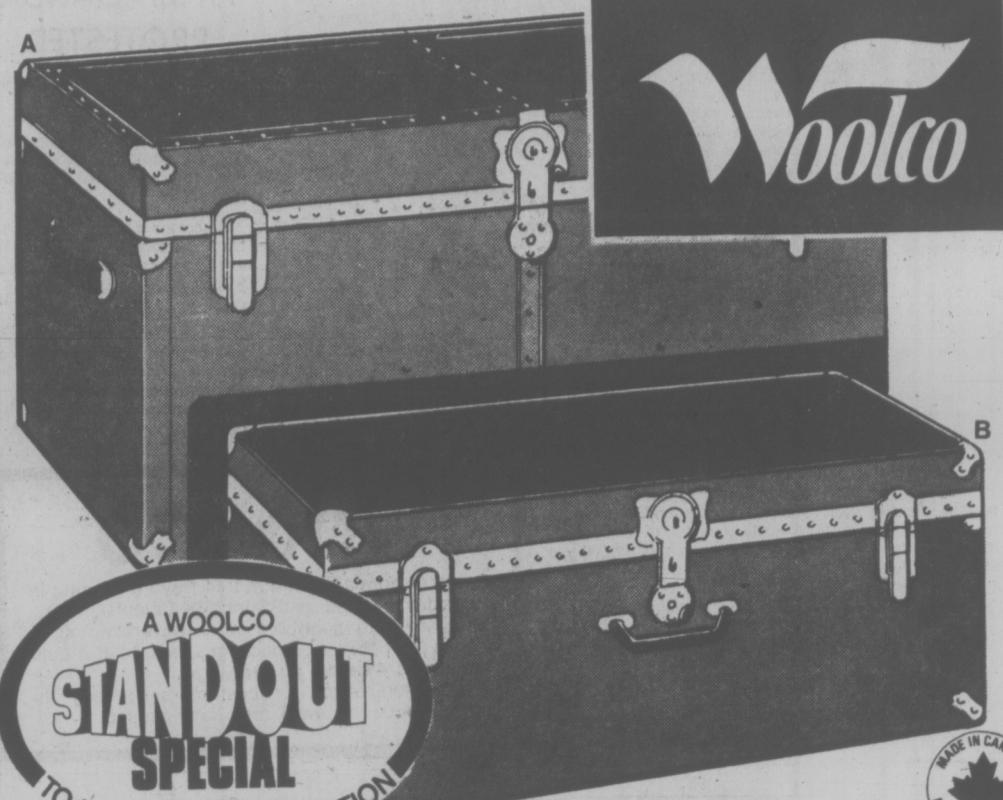

Just how to recover from the earthquake's effects poses a major challenge for new Premier Hua Kuo-feng. Hua, who has toured the quake area, was a relatively obscure member of the Peking hierarchy until he was picked as an apparent compromise choice for the premiership during an intense political struggle after the Jan. 8 death of Premier Chou En-lai.

One of his key challenges has been how to motivate workers, who have had to significant pay raises in the last 20 years even while their productivity has increased greatly.

Up to now, the Chinese media has urged workers to pull harder in order to show up "capitalist roaders" who argue that China must rely on foreign imports to make progress. Now they have added the need to fight off the effects of the earthquake.

By BRUCE HANDLER
Washington Post

RIO DE JANEIRO — Brazil's leading newspaper has published a detailed exposé of government officials spending taxpayers' money on personal luxuries.

As the widely respected O Estado São Paulo said of its own articles: "The facts were not new in themselves. What was new was that it was possible to make them public."

Until last year, O Estado had federal police censors in its newsroom screening articles before they went to press.

President Ernesto Geisel, a retired army general who says he wants a "slow but gradual" return to democratic rule, recently ordered relaxation of censorship. The press is starting to take advantage of the opportunity.

The three-day series of O Estado included the following allegations, none of which the government has denied:

—Officials of government ministries and government-linked agencies routinely use government-paid cars and even airplanes — for personal trips ranging from weekend journeys of hundreds of miles to trivial errands such as taking their wives to the hairdresser.

—These "super-officials" throw round after round of lavish parties at the government's expense — with entertainment including movies which are censored for the population at large, such as "Last Tango in Paris" and "Z."

—Labor Minister Arnaldo Prieto has 28 maids, butlers and household servants in his official residence in Brasília and for special parties he has fresh beef flown in from 1,200 miles away and charges it to the government.

—An official of the Federal District Phone Company used state funds to buy an electric yogurt maker for his home.

—The wife of the head of the Federal Land Reform and Colonization Institute didn't like the government-paid apartment assigned to her husband, so they rented a better one and charged both to the government.

—The door latch broke on the refrigerator in the apartment of a government bank official. The official's wife ordered the whole refrigerator thrown out and a new one purchased and charged to the government.

Embracing a wider theme, O Estado chronicled the proliferation of Brazil's federal bureaucracy after the Second World War, reporting that there now are nearly 250 federal agencies, boards, institutes, foundations and quasi-governmental corporations.

The "super-officials" who work for this bureaucracy generally live high off the hog, the paper said, and are becoming a parallel power in Brazil, especially in view of the fact that the military, which has been in power since 1964, does not let the Congress exercise any real voice in the government.

O Estado calculated that a typical "superofficial" can increase his already high salary by $70,000 a year, thanks to fringe benefits such as government-paid cars, rent, travel, entertainment, household upkeep, personal services and even credit cards at Brasília shops and supermarkets. The average citizen's annual income is less than $300.

The paper also reported that President Geisel, who is known for his austere personal life style, has tried to curb spending excesses but the privileges "exceed the imagination — and also any type of control."

Legislation is inadequate for monitoring high-level bureaucratic spending, O Estado said. Even in government-linked agencies which are required to submit their books for public audit, officials hide thousands of dollars of personal spending in categories such as "miscellaneous expenses," it said.

Civil service chief Col. Darcy Siqueira, commenting on the newspaper exposé, said officials' personal spending will be controlled "from now on." But he added: "There is not going to be any witch hunt."

In a related development, Geisel used his dictatorial powers to fire a congressman linked to misuse of government funds in a state electric power company. The president apparently had been investigating the electricity company situation for some time, and his action was not a direct result of the newspaper exposé on spending abuses.

DARWIN RISES AGAIN

DARWIN (Reuters) — At a government cost of about $1.26 million Canadian a week, the new city of cyclone-devastated Darwin is rising, phoenix-like, from bulldozed in ruins.

At least four houses are completed every day in a two-year program covering Darwin's residential suburb. The record is 41 new homes completed in a week.

When Cyclone Tracy swept in with tropical fury from the Timor Sea on Christmas Day, 1974, Darwin's population was about 45,000. Ten days later it was only 11,000, after the evacuation of 34,000 people in Australia's biggest airlift.

Winds of up to 160 miles an hour had flattened most of Darwin's 9,000 suburban homes.

The cyclone killed 49 people, including 12 who disappeared in small boats that were tossed about like matchboxes on a surging sea.

The population now is back to 45,000 and statisticians say it will rise to 63,000 by 1980.

The Federal Government took over the gigantic task of reconstruction. Research by a reconstruction commission showed that the city — named after Britain's 19th-century scientist Charles Darwin — had been "blown away" four times during the last century.

Australian experts claim their research helped develop methods of "cyclone-proofing" far ahead of anything used in the tornado and hurricane areas of the United States.

They have developed the world's first fully engineered urban house, using aspects of design previously limited to high-rise city buildings.

"What hurricane Tracy did was to force a complete re-think in methods of home building," said one building expert.

"Once the objective was, of course, to hold the roof up. Now, our primary concern is to hold the roofs of these houses down."

"What we do now is hold these new houses down in a 'chain method,'" said a reconstruction spokesman.

"To put it simply, the roof is secured to the walls, walls to floor, floor to piers and piers to ground."

Now, with hundreds of new houses finished every few months and repairs to badly damaged homes being completed, a new mood has taken over in Darwin.

New suburbs have sprung up around the expanding city centre and, says one long-term resident, "Darwin never had it so good."

Dogs Play Hide-Seek With Drugs

MOUNT FOREST, Ont. (CP) — A 95-pound German shepherd dog tipped over a chair, sniffed and gingerly slipped a bag of hashish from under a leather seat as part of a hide-and-seek game he was playing with a provincial police officer in this town about 40 miles north of Kitchener.

At the urging of Constable Glen O'Rourke, Baron was playing the drug game as one part of a refresher course given every two months to the force's 12 tracker dogs.

Cpl. Albert Boley, in charge of the dogs, said the animals are given refresher courses because they are forgetful.

"A dog is like a car," Cpl. Boley said. "It continues to run but not always at its best. So you take it in once in a while for a tune-up."

All the training — drug sniffing, obedience, tracking — is done as a game. So far, the dogs are trained only for marijuana and hashish but police are considering teaching them to sniff cocaine and speed.

Although Keeba is an aggressive dog, his owner says anyone can pet him if granted permission and at home in his eight-year-old romps with the dog like a pet.

Cpl. Boley stressed that the dogs are trained to be aggressive, but not vicious.

"A vicious dog isn't reliable," he explained. "You don't know what he's going to do."

The policemen could recall only three times in the past 10 years that the tracker dogs had been used aggressively.

Cloud Two, a hall-of-fame winner, was shot at North Bay, Ont., last summer during the search for convicted murderer Donald Kelly. Another dog carried out a rifle after he was sent into a house for some armed men. A third subdued armed men in a swamp near Huntsville, Ont.

Cpl. Boley says the dogs are used about 700 times a year, usually to look for missing persons, mainly fugitives and children.

Voter Apathy Exploited

BOGOTA (Reuters) — Colombia's imperfect brand of democracy is being buffeted on all sides by forces ranging from Marxist guerrillas to gangsters.

Guerrillas are increasingly active in mountain and jungle areas north and southwest of Bogota. Newspaper men who know these areas say the leftists control several small towns, either by influence or physical presence.

Meanwhile, gangsters defending lucrative drug and emerald-smuggling rackets wage an undercover but perhaps even more dangerous campaign: they were busy behind the scenes during local elections in April, running candidates in town councils and provincial legislatures.

Of the 10 million registered voters in those elections, only 22 per cent bothered to cast their ballots.

Such apathy is exploited by the gangsters as well as some traditional politicians.

Given the low turnout in the April elections, manipulation of some results by threats or payment would not have been difficult.

The turnout becomes more significant when it is projected downward to suggest the number of people participating in an election in the sort of small town which interests the gangsters, a town in a diamond-producing or coastal area or one which is close to an obscure air-strip.

The left-wing guerrillas bear part of the responsibility for the small voter turnout. They and their supporters urged a boycott as a sign of contempt for the system, under which the traditional parties have helped one another to power and have a constitutional agreement under which they share non-elective posts.

Manuel Bayona, a physician who is president of the National Opposition Union, an alliance of Moscow-line Communists and dissident left-wing elements, sees a kind of victory in the high abstention rate.

He says his movement has no connection with the guerrillas.

"Ours is a legal, democratic organization," he said in an interview. "We believe in the electoral way to power. But we do not condemn the guerrillas."

He said the various groups, in towns and in the countryside, can be traced directly back to the liberal-conservative civil war of the 1950s, when hundreds of armed bands roamed the country.

But they have changed since those days, becoming more Marxist oriented and ideologically defined, whether they be admirers of Fidel Castro, Moscow-line communists or Chairman Mao, Dr. Bayona said.

"Nobody kills for the liberals or the conservatives these days. The country is becoming polarized on class lines."

Nobody seriously expects the guerrillas to try to come marching down from the mountains in the near future. Not even the guerrillas want another civil war; the last one took an estimated 300,000 lives.

But in the southern city of Cali, a well-informed journalist said guerrilla columns roam freely in three neighboring departments and that their urban infrastructure is extremely well-organized.

Another journalist, Hernan Unas of the Bogota daily El Espectador, reported:

The guerrilla domain has been expanding slowly but progressively in urban centres and the countryside to reach the situation in which various municipalities are directly under the control of communist elements.

"For many years the army has been clamoring for some indication of social progress in these areas, always with negative results. Some time ago military engineers sent out men to build roads, bridges and schools, but the work had to be suspended because funds were withdrawn."

At least 15 people—security forces, guerrillas and innocents caught in crossfire—have been killed in rural guerrilla actions during the last month.

Some guerrilla units are armed with weapons more advanced than those used by the Colombian army, military sources say.

Funds for arms purchases come from the now traditional Latin-American guerrilla tactics of bank robberies and kidnappings for ransom. Eric Leupin, honorary Dutch consul in Cali, has been held for 15 months.

The kidnapping business took a grim new turn earlier this year with the first murder of a victim, trade union boss Jose Mercado, after the government of Liberal President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen refused to meet his captors' demands.

Bayona talks of the need for massive mobilization to defend revolutionary gains. Colombian leftists, he said, remember what happened in Chile.

Scientists Confused By 'Life' on Mars

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
Washington Post

PASADENA, Calif. — What scientists see in the soil of Mars may be a life form unique to Mars as well as an exotic chemistry that has nothing to do with life.

That was a hesitant and tentative conclusion reached Tuesday by a panel of Viking scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where the Viking mission to Mars is directed. None of the six scientists on the panel would say they had found life and none would say they had not found life, sounding as confused and bewildered by the red sands of Mars as the newsmen and women gathered today to listen to their conclusions.

"It is entirely possible that we see a very active chemistry and that buried in that chemistry there is also biology," said Dr. Harold Klein of California's Ames Research Center and the leader of the Viking team looking for Martian life. "The biology could be there in spite of the chemistry or because of it."

So mystified was one Viking scientist by the sands of Mars that he said he would no longer volunteer to eat a sample as he had six months ago before the Viking spacecraft ever landed on Mars.

"I don't want a sore mouth and I certainly don't want to turn to a yellow liquid," said Dr. Leslie Orgel of the Salk Institute and one of seven biologists on the Viking science team. "I don't know what it is up there, but at the very least it's the kind of active soil that might be very painful and unpleasant to taste."

Martian soil samples have been distributed to three instruments on the Viking spacecraft, all three of which are built to look for signs of life. One instrument measures the carbon dioxide and monoxide exhausted by organisms growing by photosynthesis, another measures the carbon dioxide exhaled by metabolizing organisms, and the third measures the oxygen released by organisms as they metabolize.

All three instruments have witnessed a busy Martian soil. The oxygen detector found 15 times as much oxygen as it would have found had the Martian soil been bland and sterile, the other two instruments measured at least six times the gas release they would have seen on Earth.

The Viking biologists have treated their results with the most conservative caution, sounding like people groping for an explanation that does not involve life.

The biologists have said that a soil rich in peroxides and superoxides that was also worked on by the sun's intense ultraviolet light could trigger two of the three gas released experiments. But so unsure are the biologists of this explanation that they have begun experiments at no fewer than three laboratories to see if they can duplicate them.

Leningrad Maintains Individuality

LENINGRAD (AP) — Fifty-eight years of Soviet power have left their mark on Leningrad, the most Western-looking of Russia's big cities and the glittering home of the czars until the Bolshevik Revolution.

The czar's winter palace has become the Hermitage art museum, the graceful Kazan Cathedral holds displays extolling atheism and the mass-produced apartment buildings going up in the suburbs are as unimaginative as anything in Moscow.

Yet Leningrad has managed to maintain its individuality. Its revolutionary credentials secure because the czars' overthrow happened in the middle of its own downtown, Leningrad apparently has Moscow's permission to use its own judgment in city planning and operations.

Leningrad has not plastered red Communist banners across its elegant 18th- and 19th-century buildings like other cities. Banners here are much more likely to be discreetly put on side streets.

There are fewer policemen on the streets than in Moscow. The streets themselves are a festival of ice cream salesmen and old women selling pies. Bright fluorescent signs advertise offices and restaurants.

Westerners who come to Leningrad say the city's 4.5 million people are more relaxed than those in Moscow.

Travelers from the West get curious glances and warm receptions on the streets. Cab drivers switch off their meters and take visitors on long tours of the city, asking only that their passengers agree that it is the most beautiful in the world.

Czar Peter the Great started the construction of Leningrad, on the Gulf of Finland 400 miles northwest of Moscow, in 1703. His goal was to bring Russia closer to the West by modeling the city after a Western capital and inviting Westerners to live here.

The first building in Leningrad — Peter called the city St. Petersburg — was the Peter and Paul Fortress. It remains a popular walking and necking spot and contains a section of the Soviet mint.

Successive czars built the winter palace, the golden-domed St. Isaac's Cathedral, the enormous Admiralty with a triumphal column that took 2,000 soldiers to raise, scores of theatres and two suburban palaces dripping with gold. All have been preserved.

Lenin directed the Communist revolution from Smolny Hall in Leningrad but eventually moved the Soviet Union's capital to Moscow. Leningrad began to decline in world attention until the Second World War when its people astounded Nazi strategists by holding out for 900 days against a German siege despite the death of 650,000 civilians.

Today, the capital of the czars faces the same urban problems as other Soviet cities.

Onions and oranges recently were scarce and supply problems exist in other fields as well.

Leningradskaya Pravda, the city's Communist party newspaper, ran a string of complaints in June on the availability of men's shirts. One customer said inexpensive checked and striped shirts were tough to get at either of the major department stores in her suburb.

The inhabitants of 14 Prospekt Ispytatel' were complaining the elevator in their nine-storey building had been out of order since April 4. They told Vecherny Leningrad, the city's lively evening newspaper, that the bureaucracy was doing nothing but telling them to "wait a bit."

The city is eagerly preparing for outdoor festivals of summer, which brings the "white nights" — several days and nights with virtually no darkness.

The big tourist season is getting under way. Thousands come here every year but figures on tourism aren't made public.

City workmen shined up and repaired more than 500 of the city's thousands of monuments in 1975 and put up about 100 new memorials. In the last five years, the ruble equivalent of more than a million dollars was spent restoring historic attractions.

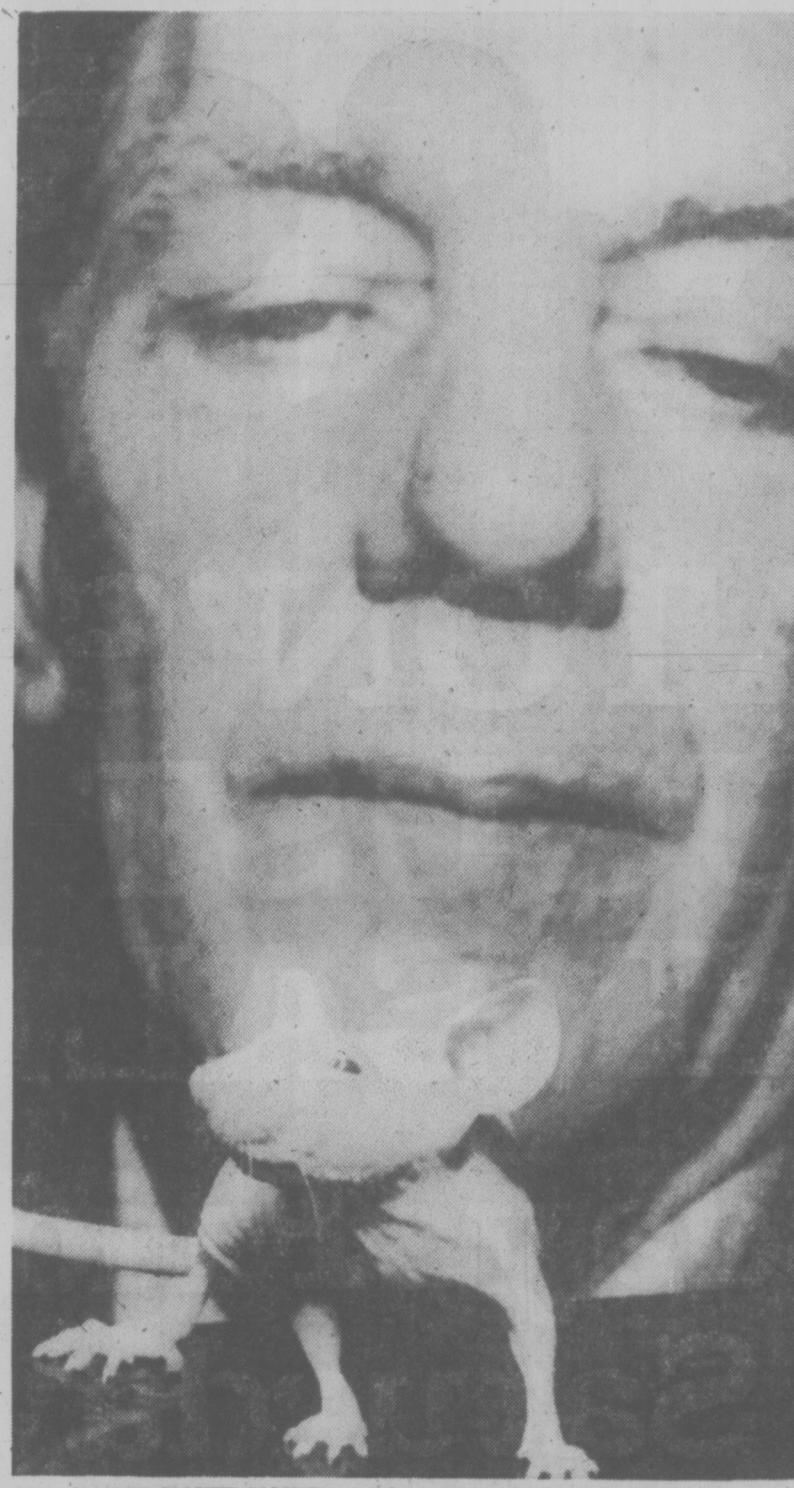

In the next five years, some of the city's most famous monuments will receive overhauls. Scientists are taking metal core samples from the "cooper horseman" — the city's biggest monument to Peter the Great, to see how it is holding up to the elements.

Block groups have planted trees and gardens and the press is turning a critical eye to how the city looks.

Vecherny Leningrad's "social correspondent" G. Shemel, expressed disgust with how Leningrad's street vendors were treating a busy part of town.

"From morning to night animated trading goes on here, and as a result there are scraps of wrapping paper on the sidewalks and empty packing boxes up against the walls of buildings," he wrote.

"What kind of street esthetics is this?"

Soviets Find the State Can't Control Bedrooms

By SETH MYDANS

MOSCOW (AP) — Cash prizes, state honors, marriage bureaus and an official encouragement of sex at an early age can only do so much.

"We are forced to concede that this trend has not passed us by."

And a recent survey of Moscow women reported by the Literary Gazette shows that most of them have no intention of raising larger families.

"For developed countries, small families are becoming typical," said the Gazette, which once announced that increasing the birth rate was one of the nation's most urgent tasks.

"We are forced to concede that this trend has not passed us by."

The Soviet birth rate continues to drop.

With a constant labor shortage and a vast empty hearthland still being developed, the Soviet Union has no worries about over-population.

It is seriously worried, however, by the rapid drop in the birth rate of ethnic Russians as compared to a continuing population explosion in the central Asian republics.

The Soviet government is dominated by ethnic Russians, with their capital in Moscow, but the day may be at hand when the Russians become a minority in their own nation.

The birth rate for the entire Soviet Union has been dropping steadily, from 31.2 births per thousand population in 1940 to 26.7 in 1950 to 16.0 in 1974, when the latest figures were collected.

The birth rate in the Russian republic has been dropping much more steeply than the national average, from 33 per thousand in 1940 to 15.6 in 1974.

Townhouses Rejected
In Duncan

DUNCAN — A 22-unit townhouse development proposed by a Victoria firm has been rejected by city council.

Garden City Construction had applied to have a 1.8-acre tract of land rezoned for the project but council rejected the application after residents of the area near Castle Street complained the development would be out of character with single-family homes.

Meanwhile, figures released by the city show residential construction continues to rise although commercial and other building is still lagging behind last year.

Building permit values to the end of July totalled $2.7 million compared to $1.1 million last year for residential properties.

Commercial construction was valued at only $388,915 compared with $1,069,300 at the same time last year.

YOUNG, OLD SWIM FREE AT CRYSTAL

Free swimming for preschool children (aged six and under) and senior citizens will be offered at Victoria's Crystal Pool this fall.

And the water temperature will be warmer, promises recreation committee chairman Ald. Ron McKenzie.

The new policy, approved by city council in caucus on Tuesday, is an attempt to boost slumping attendance at the pool.

Recreation manager Jack Morgan said today there has been about a 20 per cent drop in attendance at most municipal swimming pools in the Greater Victoria area, but at the Crystal the figure is approaching 40 per cent.

In an earlier council discussion, favorable admission rates at other centres — particularly Oak Bay's recreation

The new rates will likely take effect Sept. 1.

To qualify for free admission pre-schoolers (now charged 50 cents) will have to be accompanied by a parent. Senior citizens who now pay 75 cents will also be admitted free of charge if they can produce appropriate identification such as a Pharmacare card.

McKenzie said today there have been complaints about both the air and water temperature at the pool, and he wants to see that situation improved even if it means a hefty increase in the $40,000 oil bill.

He has asked staff to find out what the temperature is at the Oak Bay centre, and "match that or better it."

Destroy Town —Poison Probe

Times News Services

ROME — A government scientific commission recommended today the destruction of all vegetation and buildings in a northern Italian area contaminated by a poison gas cloud.

The commission said the vegetation in a 172-acre area of Seveso, north of Milan, should be destroyed and that all buildings, including the homes of 855 evacuated residents, should be torn down within three years.

The recommendations came one month after Seveso and nearby communities were contaminated by a gas cloud containing the deadly chemical dioxin which escaped from the Swiss-owned Icmesa chemical plant.

"It's useless to give any hope to the residents of the area," said Prof. Aldo Cimmino, chairman of the scientific commission. "Who knows when they will be able to inhabit the area again?"

"The buildings are all condemned," Cimmino said. "For now, we should not destroy them because of the problem of dust. It's better to wait at least three years when the concentration of dioxin is notably reduced."

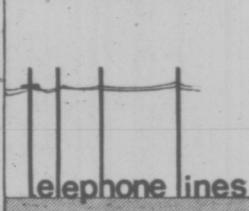

He said the chemical plant should be torn down but that there was still some disagreement on just how to accomplish the task.

In addition, the commission recommended that all vegetation in a 480-acre area adjacent to the most contaminated zone be burned off with high intensity flames reaching a temperature of 2,192 degrees Fahrenheit.

The commission recommendations were the most severe involving dioxine mishaps since 1963 when a Dutch chemical plant operated by the Philips company was dismantled brick by brick, embedded in concrete and dumped into the Atlantic Ocean.

LOCKOUT NOTICE AT SAFEWAY

Canada Safeway Ltd. has served lockout notice on its 75 Victoria warehouse employees effective 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Last-ditch contract negotiations collapsed Tuesday.

A strike is also expected at Safeway's Burnaby warehouse Thursday and the combined lockout-strike actions will cut off supplies to the chain's 33 stores in B.C., involving 10 in the Victoria area.

Retail outlets are not expected to operate longer than two weeks with supplies on hand, and a company spokesman said today 4,400 employees across the province could be out of work by that time.

Union officials remained unavailable for comment, but the company spokesman said negotiations went on for three months without any headway.

Issues in the dispute, according to the company, include a contract clause that would "give management the freedom to institute efficiencies" while the union want veto power.

Management in addition says the union wants jurisdiction over maintenance work, trucking in northern B.C., and meat transportation from California.

Residents of Umtali's Greenside and Darlington suburbs were moved to a hotel in the centre of the city after the half-hour attack by about 30 heavy mortar shells. Windows were smashed and some houses suffered structural damage, police said.

The mortar attack was apparently aimed at an army barracks in retaliation for the weekend thrust into Mozambique by Rhodesian forces in which more than 300 black guerrillas were reported killed.

Umtali is the centre of the worsening war on the eastern border with Mozambique. The sprawling town of 36,000 blacks and 8,400 whites was the main gateway between the two countries before President Samora Machel's government closed the border on March 3.

The attack came within hours of a government announcement that Rhodesian forces raided a guerrilla camp in Mozambique on Sunday. The announcement said more than 300 guerrillas, 30 Mozambique troops and about 10 civilians had been killed. There were only a few minor injuries among the Rhodesian troops, the announcement said.

But while champagne corks popped in Salisbury as white Rhodesians celebrated late into the night, political observers said the raid might push Rhodesia and the left-wing former Portuguese colony of Mozambique to the brink of war.

Rioters Stoning
'All in Sight'

SOWETO, the scene of the bloodiest clashes a week ago, remained quiet for the second day.

In the eastern Transvaal, at Lichtenberg, rioters Tuesday night burned down six buildings, including a block housing the post office. In Cape Province, demonstrators gutted a prefabricated building in a college complex. Black townships around Pretoria also suffered damage by fire, police said.

Because of the unrest in black areas, South Africa has imposed a nationwide law calling for indefinite detention of suspects involved in the outbreaks of violence during the past two months.

Saanich Plans Bylaw to Protect Trees

Saanich's parks department is moving to stop the destruction of municipal trees resulting from installation of utility poles and engineering work.

After hearing parks administrator Frank Andrews, the parks and recreation committee decided Tuesday to instruct municipal solicitor Doug Patterson to draw up a bylaw that would protect trees.

A report by Gerry Chaster, assistant parks administrator, on a meeting with representatives of B.C. Hydro, B.C. Telephone and Saanich's engineering department, said the utility companies had balked at assuming responsibility for "balanced pruning and shaping of the entire trees," saying they were only responsible for line clearance.

Chaster said municipal engineering officials felt the

parks' department requirements were "totally unworkable."

"There's a whole swath of trees on the north end of the Cedar that could have been saved that are literally decimated. There was a magnificent old tree at Majestic Park that right now looks like a scarecrow," Andrews said.

He said the city of Victoria has requirements for the protection of trees and West Vancouver has a bylaw that not only sets stiff requirements for tree-pruning on municipal ground but also covers private properties.

Municipal administrator Bill Tremayne told the committee, "There is some clout you can exert but want their goodwill to get them to agree to this kind of thing."

Chaster said both utility companies and the Saanich engineering department had alleged working 10 feet from trees was too limiting and that not cutting of roots two inches or larger was impossible.

Chaster pointed out requirements would not completely ban working closer than 10 feet but said, if this was done,

the parks administrator

should be notified so that he could seek an alternative solution such as changing alignments or grades.

Blown Up

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army and its partisans blew up a bus depot, burned down a flour mill and a community centre, hijacked trucks and battled the British Army with shots and bombs in Belfast Tuesday night and early today.

It was the third night of widespread violence in Belfast.

The upsurge was touched off by an IRA rally Sunday calling for resistance to new anti-IRA regulations.

Sewage Killing Riviera Tourism

By MARTIN LEBURN

PARIS (Reuters) — The Mediterranean is the most popular holiday lake in the world, but it may not stay that way for long.

The 100 million tourists who flock there each year will find their favorite playground more unwelcoming and in some areas downright dangerous as unbridled pollution builds up in the sea and air.

The region's coastal population of 100 million doubles each summer with the tourist invasion and the resident population is expected to reach 200 million by the year 2000, that means more human sewage and industrial waste being dumped with the sea, killing marine life and ruining once beautiful beaches.

In an attempt to save the area for future generations and clear up the damage already done, the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP) is trying to co-ordinate anti-pollution action by the sea's 18 coastal states.

A major conference in Barcelona in February set the scene for UNEP's efforts and the body has just held a meeting of experts here to find out what needs to be done, and more importantly, what can be done.

A representative from the World Health Organization (WHO) told the meeting that cases of typhoid and similar intestinal diseases were increasing each year round the shore of the Mediterranean.

"Much of this increase is due to microbial contamination of the water," said UNEP's regional director for Europe, Peter Thatcher. "Many existing sewage systems are not adequate and others are just not keeping pace with population growth."

"Already in some areas of the Mediterranean certain kinds of fish can no longer be eaten and beaches are unusable for tourists," he said.

UNEP is trying to help governments control pollution with a three-stage "Blue Plan" launched at the Barcelona conference. The first stage will take two years to amass a detailed picture of all kinds of pollution throughout the Mediterranean.

Then UNEP, with the help of other UN agencies and national institutions, will draw up projections of future tolerable levels of pollution and finally try to get governments to enact concrete proposals for solving the problem.

"The whole region is increasingly seen as an entity," Thatcher said. "But it seems clear that very few governments have the ability to integrate their planning."

One of the main aims of the Paris experts' meeting was to discuss co-ordination of separate national industrial development programs, one of the thorniest problems the "Blue Plan" faces.

"There is definitely going to be industrial development in previously untouched parts," said Thatcher. "There is a change in the pattern of importing labor into Europe as the global cost of immigrant labor becomes prohibitive, so industry will tend to go where the manpower is."

UNEP officials see the process of persuading governments to tailor their industrial plans to what the environment can support as inevitably long and difficult.

Another major problem they face is the risk of a major oil spill disaster as tanker traffic through the reopened Suez canal increases. Already 200,000 to 300,000 tons of oil are dumped in the Mediterranean each year, mostly from tankers cleaning their tanks.

"Statistically, we are bound to get an accident sooner or later," Thatcher said. "Recently there was nearly a disaster with a 70,000-ton tanker off Malta. They were lucky."

The London-based Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization (IMCO) is opening a regional emergency centre in Malta this summer to help reduce the damage caused by any eventual oil spill.

But an IMCO convention which obliges states to provide tanker-cleaning facilities in harbors has only been signed by two of the 18 Mediterranean coastal states, and the convention can only be applied to spot dumping within the territorial waters of those two countries.

Dr. Stjepan Keckes, UNEP's program co-ordinator, said there were no scientific grounds for talking of the death of the sea in the coming decades.

"But the coastal zones are already highly polluted and it doesn't help if the middle is clean," Dr. Keckes said. "The later we take action the more it costs to clear it up."

Then UNEP, with the help of other UN agencies and national institutions, will draw up projections of future tolerable levels of pollution and finally try to get governments to enact concrete proposals for solving the problem.

Driving in Rhodesia Hard on Nerves

BEITBRIDGE, Rhodesia (Reuters)

Limpopo River to South Africa.

"Keep a reasonable distance between cars and if anything happens keep going," says a police reservist briefing drivers.

There are mostly whites in the cars lining up for the twice daily runs in each direction between Fort Victoria and the bridge.

Drivers do not have to join the 8:30 a.m. and noon convoys from Fort Victoria just south of the town.

Some decide to go it alone and are checked through a police barricade before hurrying south through the African bush.

"Frankly I'm not sure whether I would use the convoy," says a reservist who estimates he has covered 5,000 miles up and down the road in two weeks.

But most people play safe, because from time to time there are reminders that the area still contains guerrillas who have infiltrated Rhodesia's eastern border with Mozambique.

A band of guerrillas recently abducted a white electrician, 46-year-old Joao Al-

power lines near the road.

Led by police poking machine guns over the edge of open trucks, about 80 vehicles take part in the early-morning run.

There are more police vehicles in the middle and rear of the column, which stretches over about five miles and speeds along at about 70 miles an hour.

"Off we go. Just 15 minutes in the Lion and Elephant, and then back on the road," says police reservist.

Some tell a story of a white woman motorist who gave a black woman a lift on a road to Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital.

They had gone a few miles

tary boots, faked a punctured tire and swerved to a halt, asking the passenger to get out and look.

She then drove off, leaving the hitch-hiker by the side of the road. Police opened the passenger's suitcase, left in the car, and found a Russian-made Sten gun inside, according to the story.

The woman had given a lift to a terrorist dressed as a woman, the storyteller says.

There is no way of checking the story.

YOUNG, OLD SWIM FREE AT CRYSTAL

Free swimming for pre-school children (aged six and under) and senior citizens will be offered at Victoria's Crystal Pool this fall.

And the water temperature will be warmer, promises recreation committee chairman Ald. Ron McKenzie.

The new policy, approved by city council in caucus on Tuesday, is an attempt to boost slumping attendance at the pool.

Recreation manager Jack Morgan said today there has been about a 20 per cent drop in attendance at most municipal swimming pools in the Greater Victoria area, but at the Crystal the figure is approaching 40 per cent.

In an earlier council discussion, favorable admission rates at other centres — particularly Oak Bay's recreation complex — were cited as one of the main reasons for the Crystal's waning popularity.

The new rates will likely take effect Sept. 1.

To qualify for free admission pre-schoolers (now charged 50 cents) will have to be accompanied by a parent. Senior citizens who now pay 75 cents will also be admitted free of charge if they can produce appropriate identification such as a Pharmacare card.

McKenzie said today there have been complaints about both the air and water temperature at the pool, and he wants to see that situation improved even if it means a hefty increase in the $40,000 oil bill.

He has asked staff to find out what the temperature is at the Oak Bay centre, and "match that or better it."

Destroy Town —Poison Probe

Times News Services

ROME — A government scientific commission recommended today the destruction of all vegetation and buildings in a northern Italian area contaminated by a poison gas cloud.

The commission said the vegetation in a 172-acre area of Seveso, north of Milan, should be destroyed and that all buildings, including the homes of 855 evacuated residents, should be torn down within three years.

The recommendations came one month after Seveso and nearby communities were contaminated by a gas cloud containing the deadly chemical dioxin which escaped from the Swiss-owned Igemesa chemical plant.

"It's useless to give any hope to the residents of the area," said Prof. Aldo Cimmino, chairman of the scientific commission. "Who knows when they will be able to inhabit the area again."

"The buildings are all condemned," Cimmino said. "For now, we should not destroy them because of the problem of dust. It's better to wait at least three years when the concentration of dioxin is notably reduced."

He said the chemical plant should be torn down but that there was still some disagreement on just how to accomplish the task.

In addition, the commission recommended that all vegetation in a 480-acre area adjacent to the most contaminated zone be burned off with high intensity flames reaching a temperature of 2,192 degrees Fahrenheit.

The commission recommendations were the most severe involving dioxine mishaps since 1963 when a Dutch chemical plant operated by the Philips company was dismantled brick by brick, embedded in concrete and dumped into the Atlantic Ocean.

LOCKOUT NOTICE AT SAFEWAY

Canada Safeway Ltd. has served lockout notice to its 75 Victoria warehouse employees effective 12:30 p.m. Friday.

Last-ditch contract negotiations collapsed Tuesday.

A strike is also expected at Safeway's Burnaby warehouse Thursday and the combined lockout-strike actions will cut off supplies to the chain's 93 stores in B.C., involving 10 in the Victoria area.

Retail outlets are not expected to operate longer than two weeks with supplies on hand, and a company spokesman said today 4,400 employees across the province could be out of work by that time.

Union officials remained unavailable for comment, but the company spokesman said negotiations went on for three months without any headway.

Issues in the dispute, according to the company, include a contract clause that would "give management the freedom to institute efficiencies" while the union wanted power.

Management in the dispute says the union wants jurisdiction over maintenance work, trucking in northern B.C., and meat transportation from California.

Residents of Umtali's Greenside and Darlington suburbs were moved to a hotel in the centre of the city after the half-hour attack by about 30 heavy mortar shells. Windows were smashed and some houses suffered structural damage, police said.

The mortar attack was apparently aimed at an army barracks in retaliation for the weekend thrust into Mozambique by Rhodesian forces in which more than 300 black guerrillas were reported killed.

Afterwards, Rhodesian Air Force jets were seen streaking across the town toward the border with Mozambique three miles away. There was no official confirmation that they had struck back at the mortar positions.

Umtali is the centre of the worsening war on the eastern border with Mozambique.

Militant black students ran riot in Krugersdorp, east of Johannesburg, "stoning everything in sight," police reported.

Police said the students boycotted classes and ran through the streets hurling rocks at buildings and cars.

"They are stoning everything in sight," police said.

Police said they "took action" to restore order but gave no further details.

So far 11 persons have been killed in the last outbreak of violence that began last week when youths demanded the release of student leaders who were rounded up in mid-June during racial fighting that left 176 persons dead.

Soweto, the scene of the bloodiest clashes a week ago, remained quiet for the second day.

In the eastern Transvaal, at Lichtenburg, rioters Tuesday night burned down six buildings, including a block housing the post office. In Cape Province, demonstrators gutted a prefabricated building in a college complex. Black townships around Pretoria also suffered damage by fire, police said.

Because of the unrest in black areas, South Africa has imposed a nationwide law calling for indefinite detention of suspects involved in the outbreaks of violence during the past two months.

U.S. Air Fares Up
WASHINGTON (WP) — The U.S. civil aeronautics board Tuesday approved a two per cent increase in domestic air fares effective Sept. 15.

Kosygin Too Ill
MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is too ill to meet with visiting leaders of the Japanese federation of economic organizations, Japanese sources said today.

Soviet authorities gave no indication of the nature of the illness.

Climbers Killed
ANCHORAGE (AP) — Three Japanese climbers have died in an avalanche at the 8,000-foot level of Mt. Foraker in the Alaska Range, a National Park Service spokeswoman said Tuesday.

MacEachen to U.S.

Bangs in Israel

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — Small bombs went off early today outside two Israeli banks in the occupied West Bank town of Ramallah. No one was injured.

Hijack
Bid Foiled
ISTANBUL (UPI) — Turkish airport guards today foiled an attempt to hijack an Israeli El Al airlines jet bound for Tel Aviv, killing two Arab guerrillas and capturing two others, police officials said.

Twenty-four passengers, mostly Israelis, were wounded in a gun fight between the guerrillas and police, an Israeli consulate official said.

"Sixteen of the wounded are in critical condition," he said.

CUPE MAN KILLED

HOPE (TNS) — A top official of the Canadian Union of Public Employees was killed Tuesday when his car plunged off the highway on Nine Mile Hill east of here.

Dead is Aubrey Burton, 55, of North Vancouver.

RCMP said, Burton's car left the Hope-Princeton Highway after passing another car.

Burton was chief negotiator for CUPE during the last round of contract talks with Lower Mainland area municipalities.

Dramatic Decline In Inflation Rate

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Canada's inflation rate declined dramatically in July, due mainly to lower food prices, Statistics Canada reported today.

The annual boost in the Consumer Price Index to a 6.8 increase was the lowest in three years, the data-gathering agency said.

The overall consumer price index in July advanced 0.4 per cent for the month, mainly due to increased costs of mortgages and rents as well as seasonally-higher prices for hotel and motel accommodation.

Last year at this time, Canada was in the grip of double-digit inflation with an annual increase of 11 per cent showing in last July's figures which were up 1.4 per cent over June of that year.

This July's increase brought the consumer price index to 149.3 compared to 100 in the base year of 1971.

Higher pork prices, as well as higher prices for vegetables, coffee and restaurant meals were mainly responsible for the 0.3 per cent increase in the food price index.

Lower prices for beef products and sugar offset those increases.

The price of food consumed at home during July was 0.6 per cent below the level of July, 1975. It was the first time in five years that food consumed at home had shown a decrease in any 12-month period.

Higher train fares also were factors in the CPI increase.

Household help charges also were up, but were partly offset by lower automobile and gasoline prices which edged downward.

The figures include a tax credit of $7.9 million in 1975 and $6.5 million in 1976.

President Ronald Cross said the reduction in sales was due to the unfavorable rate of exchange of the Canadian dollar in the U.S. plus poor market conditions for sulphite pulp. The company plans to phase out its sulphite mill at Prince Rupert.

Earnings in the second quarter were $8.3 million, down from $11.4 million.

Gross said the increase in value of the Canadian dollar significantly affected earnings and accounted for about half of the earnings reduction in the second quarter.

There have been signs that the dollar is returning to near par in the second half of the year.

CanCel's sales to the U.S. are in American dollars and the company loses about three per cent of its revenue when it converts this to Canadian cash.

Saanich's parks department is moving to stop the destruction of municipal trees resulting from installation of utility poles and engineering work.

After hearing parks administrator Frank Andrews, the parks and recreation committee decided Tuesday to instruct municipal solicitor Doug Patterson to draw up a bylaw that would protect trees.

A report by Gerry Chaster, assistant parks administrator, on a meeting with representatives of B.C. Hydro, B.C. Telephone and Saanich's engineering department, said the utility companies had balked at assuming responsibility for "balanced pruning and shaping of the entire trees," saying they were only responsible for line clearance.

Chaster said municipal en-

parks' department require-

able."

trees on the north end of the

mated. There was a magnifi-cold tree at Majestic Park

screwpow."

He said the city of Victoria

tection of trees and West Vancouver has a bylaw that not only sets stiff requirements

ground but also covers priate properties.

Bill Tremayne told the committee, "There is some clout

you can exert but you want their goodwill to get them to
